THE SHRINES OF NAPHTALI

....AND....

CITIES OF PHŒNICIA.

KEDESH—NAPHTALI.

I DID not take the direct road to Kedesh. It was always my plan in traveling through Bible lands to select the routes of greatest interest, though they might not be the shortest. I did so now. Diverging to the right, I rode round the head of a ravine, and then along the eastern base of a conical hill which overtops Safed. In half an hour we reached the brow of the mountain ridge, overlooking one of the most magnificent prospects in Syria. At our feet lay the plain of the Upper Jordan, covered with verdure, and having the lake Merom sleeping peacefully in its southern end. Beyond it rose Hermon, towering fully ten thousand feet above the plain, its top covered with snow, and sharply defined against the clear blue sky, as if chiselled in marble. To the left the long serried ridge of Lebanon ran away, peak upon peak, all snow-capped, until lost in the distance. We stood spell-bound—

"While Admiration, feeding at the eye,
And still unsated, dwelt upon the scene."

Over the undulating upland plains of Naphtali our path now led—past little villages, through ripening fields of wheat and barley, and across luxuriant wastes, over which gazelles bounded before us in joyous troops. We zig-zagged down into the wild ravine of Hendaj, and ate our lunch where a willow drooped its weeping branches over a foaming torrent. On the banks of this stream, farther down, overlooking the "waters of Merom" lie, as we shall see, the remains of royal Hazor. As we sat there amid gorgeous oleander flowers, the thought occurred to us, that Sisera in his flight probably crossed the glen near this spot; for it was on a high plain to the north he fell by the treacherous hand of Jael.

At length we reached Kedesh, the "sanctuary" (such is the meaning of the name,) of Naphtali, and the city of refuge for the northern tribes. The site is beautiful—the summit and sides of a little ridge projecting from the wooded heights on the west into a green plain. But the royal city of the Canaanites, the holy place of Northern Palestine, is now ruined and desolate. True, there are a few hovels on a corner of the site, and a few shepherds on its pastures; yet the glory and the sacredness of Kedesh have long since departed. Naught remains to mark them save the old name and wide-spread ruins. The ridge is strewn with ruins—columns half buried in the soil; hewn stones gathered in heaps among corn-fields, or built in rude fences around tobacco gardens; and foundations too massive to be removed by the spoiler's hand.

But the most interesting remains are in the plain. The first building I examined was a square mausoleum, massive and simple; its only ornament a bold moulding round the doorway. The interior is a cruciform, and contains a number of recesses, or loculi, for bodies, in some of which are mouldering bones. I had before seen similar tombs in Bashan and anti-Lebanon. They are all probably of the Roman age. Not far distant is a group of beautiful sarcophagi, placed together on a platform of solid masonry some six feet high. I have seen hundreds of sarcophagi elsewhere in Palestine and Syria, but none like these. Two of them are double—that is, each block has two graves excavated in it, side by side, and covered by one lid. There are also two single ones—six in all. They were richly carved and sculptured; and although much worn, we can discover wreaths of leaves and pine cones along the sides of one, ram's heads at the angles of another, and an eagle on the other.

To the east of these are the ruins of a temple. The portico has fallen, and its Corinthian columns are almost covered with thorns and thistles. A triple doorway, handsomely ornamented with wreaths of fruit and flowers, remains perfect. On the lintel of one of the side-doors is an eagle with expanded wings.

Dr. Robinson supposed that these remains were of Jewish origin; and there seemed some cause for the belief in the fact that a Jewish tradition of the middle ages placed here the sepulchres and monuments of Barak, Deborah, Jael. When I saw them I thought the style of the architecture and the sculptures on the sarcophagi were Roman or Grecian rather than Jewish. Other travelers have since examined them more thoroughly, and the result shows that my impressions were correct. An altar has been discovered at the large building, with a Greek inscription, almost obliterated, containing a dedication to "the gods."

BARAK'S VICTORY.

KEDESH was the birth-place of Barak, the hero of Naphtali and Israel's deliverer. From Kedesh Deborah summoned him to fight the battle of his country, and from hence he marched at the head of ten thousand brave men.

At Kedesh was thus enacted the first scene of that historical drama; and beside it the last act was also performed. At that time the tribe of Heber the Kenite was encamped "at the terebinths of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh." It was the second day after the battle on Esdraelon; but the news had not as yet reached these mountains. From the towers of Hazor watchmen looked in vain for a messenger; and the mother of Sisera called from her window:

"Why is his chariot so long in coming? why tarry the wheels of his chariots?"

On the evening of that day, a solitary footman is seen approaching the tent of Heber. His step is tottering; his dress rent and covered with mire; in his face is pictured black despair. Jael hastens forth to meet him. It is Sisera. She needs to ask no questions, for she can read the whole story at a glance. And hark! the cries of the pursuers already echo through the mountains. See! their weapons flash amid the foliage.

"Turn in, my lord, turn in to me—and fear not."

He turned in to the tent.

"Give me a little water—I am thirsty."

She gave him milk; he drank, and sank exhausted into sleep. It was his last sleep. Jael took an iron tent-pin in one hand, and a heavy mallet in the other, and by a single blow pierced the temples of the sleeping warrior.

So died Sisera!

BETH REHOB.

I RODE on northeast for two hours through a richly wooded country, and then came out on the eastern brow of the mountain range. A sharp descent of twenty minutes brought me to the village of Hunn.

The great attraction here is the castle, now in ruins, but exhibiting in its massive foundations and shattered towers specimens of the workmanship of every race that held the country, from the Phœnicians to the Turks.

The site is most commanding—a terrace on the steep mountain-side, a thousand feet above the plain of Dan. Facing it, on the opposite range of Hermon, I saw the ruins of Cæsarea Philippi. The sacred writer, in telling the story of the capture of Laish by the Danites, says it was situated "in the valley that lieth by Beth-Rehob." There was the valley below me, and yonder little rounded hill in the midst of it is the site of Laish. Is not this therefore Beth-Rehob?

I here bade adieu to the mountains of Naphtali, and rode over to the fountains of the Jordan.

THE INVASION OF TIGLATH-PILESER.

DURING another tour, made at the same season of the year, I traversed Naphtali from north to south. Crossing the Leontes at the Castle of Shukif, I rode over a low ridge into the beautiful plain of Merj 'Ayun, which lies on the northern frontier of Naphtali. I ascended the isolated tell Dibbin, at the upper end of the plain. It is about a hundred feet high, and on its flat top and round base are heaps of stones and rubbish. The tell takes its name from a neighboring village, but the name of the plain is ancient. It is not difficult to recognize the Hebrew Ijon in the Arabic 'Ayun. On this spot stood Ijon, the first city captured by Benhadad when he invaded Northern Palestine, and the first taken by Tiglath-pileser.

I was now prepared to trace the route of the Assyrian conqueror—that route along which he led so many weeping captives in his train.

I rode down through fields of corn and green meadows to the foot of the plain, some five miles from Ijon. Here, on the top of a little conical hill, stands the village of Abel, on the site of Abel-beth-Maachah, the second city captured by Tiglath-pileser. From it the Assyrians ascended the mountains and marched upon Kedesh. I rode southwards along their eastern base to survey the plain of Huleh (or Merom), and search for the site of Hazor.

After a long ride, the incidents of which I must here pass over, I reached an undulating plain lying between the foot of the mountains and the western shore of the waters of Merom. Ascending a projecting ridge, I examined the country minutely, and felt convinced that I had before me the battle-field where Joshua overthrew the northern confederacy:

"So Joshua came against them at the waters of Merom suddenly." If so, where was Hazor? It must have been close at hand, for after the pursuit was over, "Joshua turned back and took Hazor."

SITE OF HAZOR DISCOVERED.

THE incidental notices of the sacred writer place Hazor south of Kedesh; and Josephus states that it was situated over the lake of Merom, and so close to it that the plain round the lake was called by its name.

Beside where I sat was the mouth of the ravine of Hendaj. Mounting my horse, I followed a broad path, like an old highway, up its southern bank, and soon came upon the ruins of an ancient city. Not a building—not even a foundation was perfect. Large cisterns, and heaps of stones, mounds of rubbish, prostrate columns, the remains of a temple, and an altar with a Greek inscription—such were the ruins strewn over this site. I thought at the time that these might be the ruins of Hazor, and I have since become more and more confirmed in the belief.

From this interesting spot I rode over the mountains to Safed, and thence I took almost a straight course down a rugged hill side, and across undulating table-land overgrown with thickets of gigantic thistles, to the mouth of the Jordan, where it enters the Sea of Galilee. It was a toilsome but most interesting ride, affording a clear view at once of the wonderful richness of the soil, and no less wonderful desolation of the country.

Having thus traversed Naphtali, which constitutes the eastern division of Northern Palestine, I now turn to Phœnicia the western.

PHŒNICIA.

ALONG the whole seaboard of Palestine extends a low plain, twenty miles wide at the southern end, but at the northern a mere strip. In Bible times it was divided into three provinces—Philistia, Sharon, and Phœnicia. The ridge of Carmel separated the two latter. At its northern base is the plain of Acre, reaching inland till it joins Esdraelon. But the mountains of Naphtali first, and then the loftier and bolder chain of Lebanon, shoot out their western roots, and the coast-plain, from Achzib to the entrance of Hamath, does not average more than a mile in breadth, and is often intersected by rocky promontories. On this narrow tract, under the shadow of Lebanon, stood the world-renowned cities of Tyre and Sidon.

The founders of Phœnicia were Sidon, Arvad, and Arki, sons of Canaan, and consequently, in the Bible as well as on their own coins and monuments, the people are always called "Canaanites."

The name Phœnicia is of Greek origin, and probably derived from the "palms" (phœnikes) that once waved on the sunny plain. Phœnicia was the great mother of commerce—the England, in fact, of the Old World. The proudest cities along the shores of the Mediterranean were her daughters; Carthage, Syracuse, Cadiz, Marseilles, and many others.

The plain of Phœnicia was included in the Land of Promise, but the Israelites were unable, and probably unwilling, to expel the powerful and wealthy traders. David and Solomon even sought their aid as seamen, and took advantage of their skill as architects.

Thus, while the sacred interest that clusters round every spot in Palestine can scarce be said to find a place in Phœnicia, there is a historic interest in its wave-washed ruins that makes them dear to the scholar; and there is an occasional connection between them and Bible story, which awakens the attention of the Christian. Elijah's miracle at Zarephath, a city of Sidon, our Lord's interview with the Syro-Phœnician woman, and the Apostle Paul's visits to Tyre, Sidon, and Ptolemais, can never be forgotten. Phœnicia, too, is full of prophetic interest. The infallible truth of Scripture is written upon her desolate shores.

THE SEA COAST.

MY first ride through Phœnicia was a continuation of one of my earliest tours in the Holy Land. Many years have passed since then, but the scenes are still fresh before the eye of memory. 'From Nazareth I journeyed westward through the wooded hills of Galilee and across the rich plain to Acre. Accho, or Ptolemais, has little Biblical interest, so I pass it and ride northward to Achzib, one of those cities which Asher thought it best to leave, with Accho and Zidon, in the hands of the Phœnicians. The hills were now close upon my right, clothed with olive groves, which brought to my mind Moses' blessing upon Asher—"Let him dip his foot in oil." (Deut. xxxiii. 24). I scaled the Tyrian Ladder, a bold headland which shoots far out into the sea, and in two hours more I clambered up the dizzy staircase to the top of the White Cape—a perpendicular cliff of limestone rising hundreds of feet from the bosom of the deep; along its brow the ancient and only road is carried, hewn in the living rock. Thence I pushed onwards and encamped at the fountains of Tyre.

Nearly the whole shore from the Tyrian Ladder northward was strewn with ruins. Heaps of hewn stones and quantities of marble tesseræ lay in my path; while broken shafts and mounds of rubbish were seen to the right and left—here crowning a cliff, there washed by the waves. One thing I specially noted; from the time I left Achzib till I reached the fountains I did not see a human being—a mournful and solitary silence reigns along Phœnicia's coast.

TYRE.

I SPENT two days at Tyre, and they were not the least interesting of my pilgrimage. I first examined the fountains, now called Ras el-'Ain. They are natural springs, four in number, encircled by massive walls, which raise the water high enough to supply the city, to which it was taken on arched aqueducts more than three miles in length. Next I minutely surveyed the desolate site of "Old Tyre," (Palætyrus); and then crossing Alexander's mole, I explored the whole remains of "New Tyre."

Tyre was a double city, or rather there were two cities of the same name, an old and a new. The former stood on the main land, the latter on an island opposite, half a mile from shore. Of Old Tyre not a vestige remains. I searched the plain on which it stood without discovering a single fragment of a wall, or a trace of a foundation, or even a heap of rubbish. History accounts for this remarkable fact. Three centuries before Christ the city was taken by Alexander the Great, who immediately proceeded to besiege New Tyre on the island. Not being able to reach its walls with his engines, he collected the whole remains of the old city—stones, timber, rubbish—threw them into the narrow channel, and thus formed a causeway.

Here we have one of the most striking fulfilments of prophecy on record. Three centuries before Alexander the Great was born, Ezekiel wrote:

"Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I am against thee, O Tyrus, and will cause many nations to come up against thee, as the sea causeth his waves to come up. And they shall destroy the walls of Tyrus, and break down her towers; I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rock.... They shall lay thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust in the midst of the water....I will make thee a terror, and thou shalt be no more, though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou never be found again, saith the Lord God."

Would it not seem as if the prophet had drawn aside the veil which shrouds futurity, and looking down through five-and-twenty centuries, had seen that bare, unmarked, deserted plain as I saw it? One might even imagine that his prophetic eye had been able to distinguish a solitary traveler from a far distant land wandering up and down, searching, but searching in vain for the city of which he said, "Though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou never be found again."

New Tyre is now represented by a poor village. The ancient "mistress of the seas" can only boast of a few fishing-boats. The modern houses of a better class have had their walls so shattered by earthquakes that the inhabitants have deserted them; and the modern ramparts are so ruinous that I went in and out and over them in several places. The most imposing ruin is that of the cathedral, built in the fourth century, for which Eusebius, the ecclesiastical historian, wrote a consecration sermon, and in which William, the historian of the Crusades, presided as archbishop.

But one thing especially struck me in wandering over the site of Tyre. Along the shores of the peninsula lie huge sea-beaten fragments of the old wall, and piles of granite and marble columns. They are as bare as the top of a rock; and here and there I saw the fishermen spreading out their nets upon them, to dry in the bright sunshine. When I saw them I sat down on one of the highest fragments, and read, with mingled feelings of wonder and awe, the words of Ezekiel:

"I will make thee like the top of a rock; thou shalt be a place to spread nets upon."

SIDON.

FROM Tyre to Sidon I rode in six hours, stopping in the interval to examine the desolate site of the city of Sarepta, and to read the story of Elijah's visit and miracle. The aspect of Tyre is bleak and bare, but that of Sidon rich and blooming. In fact, it is one of the most picturesque towns in Syria. It stands on a low hill which juts out into the Mediterranean, and is defended by old but picturesque walls and towers. On a rocky islet, connected with the city by a broken bridge, is a ruined castle, once the defence of the harbor.

The ancient architectural remains about Sidon are few—some marble and granite columns, some pieces of mosaic pavement, and some fragments of sculptured cornice. But the tombs are interesting. They dot the plain and the mountain side beyond, and have already yielded a rich harvest to the antiquary—Phœnician sarcophagi, Greek coins, funeral ornaments, and crystal vases. They would still repay a fuller inspection.

The garden and orchard of Sidon are charming. Oranges, lemons, citrons, bananas, and palms, grow luxuriantly, and give the environs of the old city a look of eternal Spring. Sidon is one of the few spots in Syria where nature's luxuriance has triumphed over neglect and ruin, and where a few relics of ancient prosperity still remain in street, and mart, and harbor.

It is instructive to compare Tyre and Sidon. The former far outstripped the latter in grandeur, wealth, and power, but its history has been briefer and more momentous. Once and again the tide of war swept over Tyre, first leaving the old city desolate, and then the new in ruins. Sidon has been more fortunate, or perhaps I should say less unfortunate. The tide of war swept over it too, but the wave was not so destructive.

How are we to account for this marked difference in the history of two cities, founded by the same race, standing upon the same shore, almost within sight of each other, inhabited by the same people, and exposed to the same dangers? Human foresight, had it been asked, would have pronounced Tyre the most secure, because its position rendered it almost impregnable. The spirit of prophecy judged otherwise. And in answering this question, the thoughtful reader of the Bible and the thoughtful student of history will not overlook the fact, that while Sidon's name is lightly passed over by the Hebrew prophets, the curses pronounced upon Tyre are among the most sweeping and terrible in the whole scope of prophecy.

PACIFIC BUSINESS COLLEGE.—We desire to call the attention of our readers to an advertisement in another column of the Pacific Business College, an institution that as a medium through which to obtain a thorough Practical Business Education, stands without competition on this coast. We can sincerely recommend this institution to any young man who desires a sound business education. The range of instruction given, embraces every branch of trade,—Merchandising, Commission, Insurance Banking, Railroading, Steamboating, Telegraphing, etc. This is a School especially suited to young men whose early education has been neglected, and boys who have to make their own way in the world, and need a useful education. We had an occasion to visit this institution a few days since, and were very agreeably surprised to see the progress which has been made in its various improvements in the past year. We found eight or nine lofty rooms, which it occupies in the Mechanics' Institute Building, well filled with students, and all busily engaged with the various studies for which they entered. There is an air of prosperity about the whole place that one rarely sees in an institution of this kind. The number of students in daily attendance ranges from two hundred to two hundred and fifty. A young man starting out in life can have no better passport to congenial and remunerative employment than a Diploma from the Pacific Business College.

GREAT OVERLAND CIRCUS.—Under the management of Messrs. Leihy, Lake & Co., the finest Circus which ever appeared on this coast, will be opened to the public on Monday evening next. The Mammoth Tent on the empty lot on Jackson street, above Montgomery, is already attracting the eyes of every passer-by.

— The approaching Holidays occupy the minds of many ladies, who make great preparations to appear during the same in befitting costume. There is not one of them, we verily believe, who will not order one of the celebrated Cloaks of Messrs. Sullivan & Co., No. 14 Montgomery street.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

[From the Resident Correspondent of THE HEBREW.]

NEW YORK, March 15th, 1870.

EDITOR HEBREW:—Being on the eve of Purim, the festival on which that bloodthirsty foe of our nation and religion, Haman, was brought to grief, we are reminded of the many Hamans that exist even in this century which boasts of so much progress and enlightenment. And we would fain like to advise them to look back into time long passed away, and ascertain the fate the Hamans of old had to endure, and then take counsel, and abstain from wickedness. Even in this land where the genial sun of liberty shines most brightly, the modern Hamans try to raise their heads. Witness the proceedings of the late Presbyterian Convention in Pittsburgh, Pa., which resolved to petition Congress to amend our glorious Constitution for the purpose of making a sectarian instrument out of it. Truly, whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad. These sanctimonious gentlemen, among whom is a Judge of the U. S. Supreme Court, resolve that "we commit a great sin by not declaring in our Constitution that to the Almighty belongs the government of this country." Now, all this is rank blasphemy, for these reverend gentlemen, with coats buttoned up to the neck, believe, by their very expressions, that without their surrendering the Government to Almighty God, He is not the Ruler of this nation. But there is something else lurking behind all this. They want to introduce Jesus Christ as the Ruler of this nation, and this once passed upon and inserted in the Constitution of our country, they, the special vicegerents of Christ 'pon earth, would rule the nation. And this means to exclude from all offices of emolument and trust all disbelievers in the Divinity of the Rabbi of Nazareth, for they could never take the oath of office and swear to uphold the Constitution, which would mean to serve Jesus as the Ruler of this nation. This movement means to stain the virgin soil of these happy shores with blood shed by fanaticism, intolerance, and bigotry. How will the millions of Unitarians, Deists, Infidels, and Jews look upon this? Thank God, we have too much faith in the sound sense of American citizens to believe that they will ever seriously agitate such a question, and we will hope the exemplary punishment meted out by Providence to Haman of old, will frighten back these agitators that try to bring back again religious fanaticism, intolerance, prejudice, bigotry, hatred, etc, all these spectres of bygone ages.

The Tenth Anniversary Ball given by the M. W. Grand Lodge A. J. O. K. S. B., proved to be a perfect success. Dancing was enjoyed until the morning star shone brightly, and all present wore smiling, happy faces. About midnight a grand promenade was given to our M. W. Grand Saar, Philipp Brown, at the end of which, the crowd formed a circle, within which stood the M. W. Grand Saar. The latter was saluted with a few remarks by ex-Gr. Saar, Bro. B. J. Davis, who called upon Dep. Gr. Saar, G. Levy, to address the M. W. Gr. Saar. Mr. Levy highly extolled the virtues of the above gentlemen, and his special merits in regard to our noble Order, and presented him, in the name of the members of the M. W. Grand Lodge, with a splendid gold watch. The ex-Grand Saar was taken by surprise, and was so moved that he could not answer. He begged to be excused, and promised to answer in the Quarterly Meeting of the M. W. Grand Lodge, which will take place on next Sunday. The supper-rooms were then thrown open, and the crowd tried to satisfy the inner man. Dr. Bondi, editor of the Hebrew Leader, had been invited, and eulogized the great modesty of our M. W. Grand Saar, of whom he is an intimate friend, and brother in Maccabee Lodge No. 71, I. O. B. B. We were glad to see several brethren of the Order, hailing from Syracuse, Detroit, etc., who had come expressly to enjoy with us this festival.

It becomes my pleasant duty to record the entertainment given by the Young Ladies' Charitable Union. This Society was founded a few months ago by several young Hebrew damsels. It counts now over fifty members, none of whom have as yet passed their teens. Last week they gave a Literary and Musical Entertainment, which was highly enjoyed by their audience. This affair netted them over $500, wherewith they will do a great deal of good. The Society meets every week for two hours, during which time they manufacture garments for the needy and distressed. God speed their noble charity, and send them soon some good husbands, who will prove to them valuable aids in their noble work.

A meeting had been called for last Sunday afternoon to organize a Society to aid Hebrew emigrants, but owing to the inclemency of the weather it was not well attended. I believe another is to be called for next Sunday.

Truly Yours, — VERITAS.

THE PROPHET MOHAMMED.

HOW HE LOOKED, ACTED, LIVED AND HAD A BEING.

He was of middle height, rather broad of shoulders, wide of chest, strong of bone and muscle. His head was massive; strongly developed. Dark hair, slightly curled, flowed in a dense mass almost down to his shoulders. Even in advanced age it was sprinkled by only about twenty gray hairs—produced by the agonies of "revelations." His face was oval shaped, slightly tawny of color. Fine, long, arched eyebrows were divided by a vein, which throbbed visibly in moments of passion. Great black restless eyes shone out from under long eyelashes. His nose was large, slightly aquiline. His teeth, upon which he bestowed great care, were well set and dazzling white. A full beard framed his manly face. His skin was clear and soft, his complexion "red and white." His hands were as "silk and satin." His step was quick and elastic, yet firm. In turning his face he would turn his whole body. His whole gait and presence was dignified and imposing. His countenance was mild and pensive. His laugh was rarely more than a smile. "Oh, my little son!" reads one tradition, "thou wouldst have said thou hadst seen a sun rising." "I," says another witness, "saw him on a moonlight night, and sometimes I looked at his beauty, and sometimes at the moon, and his dress was striped with red, and was brighter and more beautiful to me than the moon."

In his habits he was extremely simple, though he bestowed great care on his person. His eating and drinking, his dress and furniture, retained, even when he had reached the fullness of his power, their almost primitive nature. He made a point of giving away all "superfluities." The only luxuries he indulged in were, besides arms, which he highly prized, certain yellow boots, a present from the Negus of Abyssinia. Perfumes, however, he loved passionately, being most sensitive of smell. Strong drinks he abhorred.

His constitution was extremely delicate. He was nervously afraid of bodily pain; would sob and roar under it. Eminently unpracticable in all the common things of life, he was gifted with mighty powers of imagination, elevation of mind, delicacy and refinement of feeling. "He is more modest than a virgin behind her curtain," it was said of him. He was almost indulgent to his inferiors, and would never allow his awkward little page to be scolded, whatever he did. "Ten years," said Anas, his servant, "was I about the prophet, and he never said as much an 'Uff' to me. He was very affectionate to his family. One of his boys died on his breast in the smoke house of his nurse, a blacksmith's wife. He was very fond of children. He would stop them in the streets, and pat their cheeks. The worst expression he ever made use of in conversation was "What has become of him? may his forehead be darkened with mud!" When asked to curse some one he replied: "I have not been sent to curse, but to be a mercy to mankind." He never first drew his hand out of another's palm, and turned not before the other had turned. His hand, we read elsewhere—and traditions like these give a good index of what the Arabs expected their prophet to be—was the most generous, his breast the most courageous, his tongue the most truthful; he was the most faithful protector of those he protected, the sweetest and most agreeable in conversation; those who came near him loved him; they who described him would say, "I have never seen his like, either before or after." He was of great taciturnity, and when he spoke he spoke with emphasis and deliberation, no one could ever forget what he said. He was however, very nervous and restless, withal, often low spirited, as to heart and eyes. Yet he would at times suddenly break through these broodings, become gay, talkative, jocular, chiefly among his own. He then delighted in telling amusing stories, fairy tales and the like. He romped with the children and played with their toys—and after his first wife's death, he played with the dolls his baby-wife had brought into his house.

THE BENEFIT OF SUNLIGHT.—The exact reason, and the exact way of the sanitary influence of the sunlight, are not yet fully understood, but the fact is acknowledged. It is an influence which works in all kinds of diseases. Inflamatory diseases, nervous diseases, digestive troubles, are all cured by a full supply of the sun's rays. These rays assist other remedies. They work in the allopathic way upon jaundice and bilious maladies, bringing light out of darkness; and they work in the homœopathic way upon pale lymphatic disorders, changing the unhealthy pallor to the whiteness of health. The direct action of the sun upon the skin is, indeed, dreaded by many, and it is not probable that any protests of a journal of health will lessen the sale of French kid gloves or drive veils out of use. A white hand and a fair cheek will still be preferred to to the bronze and tan of a sun-browned skin. Some protection against the burning of the sun may be allowed. The best sanitary influence of the sunlight is not that of the hot ray directly upon the skin, but rather of the light in the air that is around the body, or, in other words, the light that envelopes rather than the light that impinges the frame. The sunny atmosphere, more than the battery of rays, forces the frame into vigor. Reflected sunlight, if we can get plenty of it, is even better than the direct sunlight. The diffused stream, more than the exuberant fountain, dispenses the blessing. It is enough if we are only in the light, and it is not necessary to be always "under the sun." By an arrangement of pivoted mirrors, as the damsels of Amsterdam use to bring images of the street into their chambers, one may get the disk of the sun itself into the room; but there is no need of that, if the reflected light is allowed to enter freely. This light does not lose its virtue, though it may have been beaten back from wall or tower, and may have taken many paths on its capricious race from its orbit in the sky. We may get all the good of the sunlight without being burned or dazzled; without feeling too sharply the hand of the sun upon our head.

RABBI MEISELS, of Warsaw, died middle February last, at the age of seventy-four; forty-thousand persons followed his earthly remains to the grave. He was a Polish patriot, and as such he was, in the year 1861, for six months in the citadel, but was set free by the Russian Government. He was the rabbi of this large congregation of eighty thousand souls, beloved and revered; nevertheless, the government censor prohibited the publication of eulogies in the public papers.

DR. H. M. KAHEM, of Hamburg, shows in his official diary, that in his medical practice of fifty years, he assisted 11,300 mothers in child-birth.

DEATH OF RABBI BAER MEISELS IN WARSAW.

We learn quite unexpectedly from several exchanges that one of the best men among Israel, Rabbi Baer Meisels, Grand Rabbi in Warsaw, departed this life on the 15th day of the first Adar, at the age of seventy-one years, and was buried with the greatest manifestations of sympathy on Wednesday, the 16th of February last.

The funeral procession consisted of upwards of forty thousand persons (more than fifty thousand according to the Hamagid) and was not in the least disturbed. All places of business, from the office of the greatest banker to the shop of the least workman were closed, and not only Jews, but also prominent Christians, joined the funeral procession.

Meisels stood high in the general consideration, and combined intelligence, tolerance and generosity with a vast amount of practical information. He knew how to reconcile those who were at variance with each other, and it was not the severe judge but the wise man who, in the most striking manner, brought about a reconciliation between contending parties that appealed to him. Deceased had officiated during a long period as Grand Rabbi in Cracow, where he gained the implicit confidence of all classes of society by his eminent qualities and virtues. He was, therefore, in 1848, elected deputy by the population of Cracow to the Austrian diet held in Vienna. To this period belongs the following anecdote which gave such notoriety to his name: When first admitted to the sessions of the diet he took his seat at the extreme left side. His co-religionists who, despite their heavy oppression, always sided with the government, were quite surprised at this, and asked him wherefore he took this seat. He replied: How can I sit on the right side (auf der Rechten) since the Jews have no rights (Keine Rechte).

Deceased lost part of his large fortune by unlucky speculations in Galicia, wherefore he finally resolved to accept the office of Grand Rabbi, which had been repeatedly offered to him by the large and wealthy congregation in Warsaw, as this position commanded a large salary and rich emoluments. He had to bear many vicissitudes in Warsaw, for, at the outbreak of the late revolution in Poland, he and the German preacher Dr. Jastrow, (now rabbi in Philadelphia), were suspected of being in favor of the Polish movement, wherefore they were both arrested by the Russians and imprisoned in the citadel. Their deportation to Siberia was already expected, when, after a captivity of six months, and in consequence of a powerful intervention in their behalf, their penalty was commuted into exile. From this time they both resided in Prussia, until Meisels finally returned to Cracow. Imprisonment had shattered his health, and subsequent to his pardon, having received another call to Warsaw, he refused to return thither. But the Warsaw congregation entreated so urgently to return in their midst that he finally yielded and resumed his useful sphere of occupation among them. His labor was crowned with the best success, until it pleased the Lord to call him to the regions of eternal bliss.—H. L.

BURYING A FORT.—In 1696 a large Russian army besieged the Turkish fort of Azof, which was situated on a plain, strongly fortified, and had a small but well-disciplined garrison. No common approaches could be made to it, and the Turkish cannon swept the level with iron hail. In this case the engineering skill of the Russians was baffled, but General Patrick Gordon, the right hand man of Peter the Great, and the only one for whose death it is said he ever shed a tear, being determined to take the place at any cost, proposed to bury it with earth by gradual approaches. He had a large army; the soil of the plain was light and deep, and he set twelve thousand men to work with spades, throwing up a high circumvallation of earth, and advancing nearer and nearer every day to the place, by throwing up the huge earth-wall before them in advance. The men were kept in gangs, working day and night, the earth being thrown one from another like steps of a stair, the top gang taking the lowest place every half hour in succession. In five weeks the huge wall was carried forward nearly a mile, until it rose to and above the highest ramparts, and the earth began to roll over them. This caused the Turkish governor to hang out the white flag and gave in. Had he not done so, General Gordon would have buried the fortress.

THE HEAT RECEIVED FROM STARS.—At last, after enormous labor, the heat received from two well-known stars has been measured. Arcturus, the leading brilliant of the herdsman, and Vega, the chief star of the Lyre, are two orbs dealt with by Mr. Stone, F.R.S., of the Greenwich Observatory. From a careful measurement of their light, Sir. John Herschel long since determined that these stars are of equal splendor; but Arcturus shines with a ruddy yellow light, while Vega exhibits a color which has been compared to the gleam of highly-polished steel. The estimates of their heat correspond with the aspect of these orbs. The fiery Arcturus sends us about twice as much heat as the bluish Vega. Minute indeed is the quantity of heat received from either star, even Arcturus having a direct heating effect corresponding to about the 800,000th part of a degree Fahrenheit. Or, Mr. Stone remarks, the result may be otherwise stated as follows: The heat received from Arcturus is sensibly the same as that from the face of a three-inch iron cube full of boiling water at a distance of three hundred and eighty-three yards.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Hamagid, writing from Jampele, in Austrian Poland, gives an account of a Jewish girl, Amelia Erbstein in that city, thirteen years old, who, besides the usual expertness in history, natural history, arithmetic, music, etc., speaks fluently the Russian, Polish, German and French languages, and is such an expert in Hebrew, that she knows every verse of the Bible in the original, with the usual Hebrew commentaries and studies the Talmud and commentaries with ease. Her memory is prodigious in pointing out verse, chapter, terms, lines, etc., in any book she reads, and equaled by her inquisitiveness only. In the same number of that paper is published a beautiful Hebrew communication by a young lady, Bertha Kreidman, from Jasse, dated January 4th. The letter is full of poetical beauty.

LARGE SALARY.—There appears an advertisement in the Mainzer Israelit, stating that a Chasan and Shochet, with a salary (including perquisites), of two hundred thalers (about $143.00) per annum, is wanted by the Jewish congregation of Wolfskehlen, near Darmstadt.

THE ex-editor of Hesse-Cassel is so hard up that he has resolved to reduce his expenses very largely.

Zu Lessings „Nathan der Weise'.

Es ist eine kuriose Sache um die Entwickelung der Ideen. Die schüchterne Vermuthung eines bescheidenen Weisen pflanzt sich stille fort in erleuchteten Köpfen, bis der Prophet auftritt, der sie verkündet. Er wird vielleicht gesteinigt und verbrannt; aber die Idee wirkt und lebt, sie weckt sich Männer der That; es sammelt sich um sie eine Armee; unaufhaltsam zieht sie über die Welt daher wie ein Eroberer, vor welchem Throne stürzen und die Völker sich beugen.

Eine solche, längst gepflegte, still gewachsene, arg befehdete, in Blut und Wunden erzogene und zuletzt doch groß gewordene Idee ist die Humanität, die Religion werkthätiger Liebe, williger Selbverleugnung, sanfter Duldung, vor welcher die endlichen Schranken der Bekenntnisse fallen und die allein selig machenden Kirchen verschwinden. Das Evangelium dieser Religion ist Lessings „Nathan der Weise". Das wissen nicht bloß die Bekenner, das wissen vor Allem die Gegner. Das wußten z. B. die verdienstvollen Leute, denen es beim Erscheinen des Stückes gelang, dasselbe auf den Katalog der von der Kurie in Rom mit dem Bann belegten Bücher zu setzen und damit das Verbot in Oestreich, in dem Oestreich Maria Theresia's und Joseph II. durchzusetzen. Wie schmerzlich, daß es ihnen nicht eben so leicht wurde, das Verbot für alle Zukunft aufrecht zu erhalten. Daß am 25. Juni 1819 der Nathan sogar in Wien gegeben wurde und seitdem wohl über hundert Mal das Publikum erbaut hat.

Wie das christliche Evangelium sich an einzelne Paralele knüpft, so ist es auch hier eine symbolische Erzählung, um die der Bau der herrlichen Dichtung sich erhebt, die Geschichte von den drei Ringen.

Es ist bekannt, daß Lessing die Geschichte nicht erfunden hat und doch kein Zweifel, daß Lessing den Sinn, in welchem er sie gebrauchte, nicht etwa erst hineinlegte, sondern, daß dieser Sinn schon ursprünglich darin lag. Lessings unmittelbare Quelle war der Boccaccio. Aber Boccaccio war ein Sammler, der wenige Novellen selbst erfunden hat. Die Erzählung von den Ringen lag ihm in einer älteren italienischen Novellensammlung vor. Auch eine französische Sammlung des 13. Jahrhunderts enthält sie. Aber alle diese Novellen des Mittelalters haben eine — man möchte fast sagen unendliche — Geschichte, die meistens von Indien ausgeht und über Persien, Arabien nach Spanien, Italien und dann nach Nordeuropa zu verfolgen ist. Wie verhält es sich nun mit den drei Ringen und woher stammt die Geschichte schließlich? Wo finden wir den Originalboden, in dem diese Pflanze keimte und aufwuchs? Wer war es, der das tiefsinnige Mährchen zuerst erzählte?

Die Duldung hat ihre älteste Heimath in der Seele der Unterdrückten. Die ersten Spuren der Erzählung finden wir unter den spanischen Juden des 12. Jahrhunderts.

Don Pedro von Arragonien (1024 — 1104) richtet an einen weisen Juden die verhängliche Frage, ob die christliche, oder die jüdische Religion die bessere sei. Der Jude suchte vergeblich Ausflüchte; er bittet endlich um eine dreitägige Bedenkzeit. Nach Ablauf dieser Frist kommt er wieder und stellt sich aufgebracht und verstimmt. Auf die theilnehmende Frage des Königs, was er habe, antwortet er: „Vor einem Monate reiste mein Nachbar weit fort, und um seine Söhne zu trösten, ließ er ihnen zwei Edelsteine zurück. Nun kommen die beiden Brüder zu mir und verlangen, daß ich sie von der Eigenthümlichkeit der Steine und deren Unterschied in Kenntniß setzen solle. Und als ich ihnen erwiederte, daß dies niemand besser wüßte und wissen könnte, als ihr Vater, der ja ein großer Kenner von Edelsteinen nach Werth und Form sei, und daß sie sich an ihn wenden möchten, der ihnen das Richtige sagen würde, so schlugen sie mich und schmähten mich wegen dieses Bescheides." — Wie nun der König versetzt: „Daran haben sie Unrecht gethan und Sie verdienen bestraft zu werden." Da antwortet der Weise mit der Nutzanwendung: „Siehe, auch Christen und Juden sind Brüder, von denen Jedem ein Edelstein überliefert wurde, und du fragst nun, Herr, welches der Bessere sei? So mögest Du, König, einen Boten an den Vater im Himmel senden, denn dieser ist der große Juwelier und er wird den Unterschied der Steine schon anzugeben wissen."

Der Grundgedanke ist hier also schon gegeben und die Geschichte bedarf nur geringer Modifikationen, um ihren ganzen Tiefsinn zu entfalten. Setzen wir an die Stelle des Edelsteines ein Kleinod, das den Erben kennzeichnet, an die Stelle der zwei Söhne die drei gleich geliebten, für welche der Vater zwei Unechte aber vom Echten nicht unterscheidbare Kleinode machen läßt: so haben wir die entscheidende Fassung, auf welcher Boccaccio und Andere fortbauten. Daß der König ein Sultan, daß das Kleinod ein Ring wird, thut nichts wesentliches zur Sache. Genug, der Sinn ist gewonnen: Ob Christenthum, Judenthum, Muhamedanismus die rechte Religion sei, das können wir Menschen nicht entscheiden. Erst Lessing fügte einen neuen Gedanken hinzu, indem er dem Ring die Kraft zuschrieb: „beliebt und vor Gott und Menschen angenehm zu machen"; und daran die Mahnung an die Brüder knüpft:

Die Kraft des Steins in seinem Ring am Tag
Zu legen! Komme dieser Kraft mit Sanftmuth
Mit herzlicher Verträglichkeit, mit Wohlthun,
Mit innigster Ergebenheit in Gott
Zu Hilf'!"

Hierdurch erst ist die Parabel aus einem Symbol des Indifferentismus und der Toleranz zu einem Symbol der Humanitäts-Religion geworden. Uns aber erscheint es wichtig, zu beobachten, daß die Entstehung und vielleicht auch die nächste Fortbildung der Erzählung nach dem mittelalterlichen Spanien führen.

In Spanien trafen Christenthum, Judenthum, und Islam in so naher Berührung zusammen, wie nirgend sonst. Man trat sich geistig näher; ein Kulturaustausch fand statt, intimere Beziehungen im Leben waren nicht ungewöhnlich. Spanische Christen, Prinzen und Edelleute traten in arabische Dienste.

Kostl. — Am 4. v. M. wurde nächst Kostl an dem Hausirer Löbl Hausfer ein Raubmord verübt, über den man von dort folgende genaue Details erfährt: Freitag, den 4. März, kam der des Mordes verdächtige Taglöhner Johann Lukesch ganz aufgeregt nach Hause, gab seiner Frau 70 kr. und seinem kleinen Kinde eine Semmel, welche er dem Ermordeten geraubt hatte. Diese Freigebigkeit fiel der Frau, die das nicht gewohnt, auf und sie erzählte dies einer Nachbarin. Am selben Tage noch kam eine behördliche Kommission in die Wohnung des Mörders und erklärte Letzteren als verhaftet. Anfangs weigerte er sich mitzugehen, doch als man Miene machte, ihn zu binden, folgte er willig. Auf Veranlassung der Kommission fand kurz darauf eine Besichtigung der Leiche durch den Mörder statt und auf die Frage des Kommissärs, ob er dieselbe kenne, erwiederte Lukesch mit aller Ruhe: Ja, das ist der Hauser. Trotzdem viele Verdachtsgründe gegen ihn vorlagen, daß nur er das Verbrechen verübt haben mußte, konnte man ihn lange nicht zum Geständnisse bewegen; erst Samstag Mittag gelang es dem Untersuchungsrichter, daß Lukesch das von ihm begangene Verbrechen mit allen Nebenumständen bekannte. Er habe seinem Opfer zu erst einen gewaltigen Hieb von rückwärts mit einer Hacke auf den Kopf versetzt und demselben dann, nachdem es bereits bewußtlos zusammengestürzt war, noch mehrere Stiche mit einem Taschenmesser in den Leib beigebracht, damit der Tod bald eintrete. Obwohl der Mörder behauptet, daß er die That allein ausgeführt, vermuthet man dennoch, daß er Genossen gehabt haben mußte, da viele verschiedene Fußstapfen vom Thore bis zur nahen Bahnstation laufen. Das Leichenbegängniß des Ermordeten fand Sonntag Vormittags unter großer Theilnahme und dem Zulaufe der Bevölkerung nach dem israelitischen Friedhofe in Kostl statt. Für die Hinterbliebenen wurde eine Sammlung veranstaltet, die einen Betrag von 104 fl. ergab. Der Rabbiner der jüdischen Gemeinde in Ratwitz hat übrigens an dieselbe das Ansuchen gestellt, man möge der verlassenen erbliudeten Wittwe und ihren Kindern einen jährlichen Unterstützungsbeitrag gewähren, worauf auch eingegangen wurde.

Warschau, 17. Febr. — Gestern fand hier das Begräbniß des hiesigen Ober-Rabbiners Baer Meisels statt. Der Leichenzug, bei welchem nach streng jüdischer Sitte gar keine Parade entfaltet war, war dennoch im höchsten Grade imposant durch die ungeheuere Menschenmenge, die sich betheiligte. Nicht nur die Juden, deren Gemeinde in Warschau übrigens wohl die größte in Europa ist, da deren Mitgliederzahl 70,000 übersteigt, betheiligten sich bei dem Begräbnisse, sondern auch sehr viele Christen aus allen Ständen. Meisels genoß nicht nur als Beamter und Privatmann die höchste Achtung, sondern auch als politische Persönlichkeit stand er in hohem Ansehen. Als er noch in Krakau war, wurde er im Jahre 1848 von dieser Stadt zum Reichstags-Abgeordneten nach Kremsier gewählt. Im Jahre 1861 war er Mitglied des damals aus Wahlen hervorgegangenen Staatsraths. Während der in jenem Jahre eingetretenen Reaction kam Meisels als Nationalgesinnter in die Citadelle, von wo er nach sechsmonatlicher Haft des Landes verwiesen wurde. Erst nach Ernennung des Großfürsten Constantin zum Statthalter des Königreichs Polen und der damit verbunden gewesenen nationalen Verwaltung unter Wielopolski durfte Meisels hierher zurückkehren und sein Amt wieder antreten. Seine liberale Gesinnung und sein Polnischer Patriotismus verursachten, daß er von den Behörden mit Mißtrauen beobachtet wurde, ein Mißtrauen, das ihn bis über das Grab hinaus begleitete. Die Censur hat nämlich den Nekrologen, welche die hiesigen Zeitungen über den Verstorbenen bringen wollten, das Imprimatur versagt und kaum eine kurze Mittheilung des Todes gestattet, welcher nicht einmal die Erwähnung des außerordentlichen Leichenzuges folgen durfte.

London. — Die englischen Zeitungen berichten den beklagenswerthen Tod des Hrn. Alfred Davis, dem man in seiner Sphäre mit dem berühmten Peabody vergleichen kann. Ihm verdankt man die prächtige Schule Jews Free, wo über 2000 Schüler Unterricht genießen und für welche er mehr als eine Million spendete; seine Legate betragen auch mehr als eine Million.

Antwerpen. — Unser Glaubensgenosse, Herr Strauß, Schiffserbauer zu Antwerpen, hat das Anerbieten gemacht, mehrere Schiffe auszurüsten, um auswandernde Juden an der westrussischen Grenze unentgeltlich an ihren Bestimmungsort zu bringen.

— Der „Jewish Chronicle" berichtet Folgendes: Die heilige Schrift ist in 148 Sprachen und Dialekten übersetzt worden, wovon 121 vor der Entstehung der Bibel-Gesellschaft unbekannt waren und 25 noch kein eigentliches Alphabet haben und durch die Schrift nie dargestellt werden können. Mehr als 43 Millionen Exemplare zirkuliren in den Händen von wenigstens 600 Millionen Menschen. — Die ganze Bibel (das alte und neue Testament mit den Apokryphen) besteht aus 66 Büchern, 1188 Kapiteln, 31,185 Versen, 774,692 Wörtern, 3,566,480 Buchstaben. Der Name Gottes kommt im alten Testament 6555 Mal vor.

THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.

2. If subscribers wish their papers discontinued, publishers may continue to send them until all charges are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office or place to which they are sent, they are held responsible until they settle their bill and give notice to discontinue them.

4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible. Notice should always be given of removal.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take a paper or periodical from the office, or removing and leaving it uncalled for, is "prima facia" evidence of intentional fraud.

☞ Postmasters would oblige, by a strict fulfillment of the regulations requiring them to notify publishers, once in three months, of papers not taken from their office by subscribers

PEACE BE UNTO YOU.

[CONCLUDED.]

"It is an honor for a man to cease from strife."
PROV. XX. 3.

Where, then, should be the cause of contention and strife? Not in self-interest, not in honor, not even in Justice. "Only by pride cometh contention." It is merely our vanity and self-love which prompt us to quarrel, causing our passions to be excited, and our peace of mind to be disturbed.

Now, first let us inquire, is it worth our while? Is it worth while to assert one's superiority at so great a sacrifice? Remember that, however sweet revenge may be, peace of mind is far sweeter; and that the disturbance of our equanimity, if frequently repeated, is likely to destroy our health, and permanently to affect our happiness. Surely, then, it is not worth while to quarrel.

Next, let us inquire whether it is, as we sometime suppose, an effectual mode of asserting our superiority. Suppose your neighbor does you some slight injury, either by word or deed, and you want to satisfy your self-love by a quarrel. You have high words together. Every time you meet him you scowl at him. Your wife and his wife exchange unfriendly glances. Your children and his children take the infection from their parents, and exchange uncivil words, and perhaps blows. But how does all this unpleasantness particularly punish your neighbor more than yourself? or how does it prove that you are right and he wrong? The whole proceeding is most unsatisfactory and ineffectual.

But how different it would be, if you were to go up to the man who had wronged you, and were to say:

"Neighbor, you have done me a wrong, but I won't quarrel with you. I shall be on my guard next time. Here, neighbor, here's my hand! I forgive you."

Why, the very grasp of your hand will be his greatest punishment. It will go to his very heart, and your forgiveness will be to his guilty conscience as bitter as gall. By the mere act of forgiveness, you will assert your superiority, and will even gratify your self-love a thousand times more effectually than by the harshest words of your tongue, or the darkest scowl of your countenance. It will make you honored by the man who had wronged you, and respected by those who witness your sensible forbearance and manly temper.

How true, then, are the words of the text: "It is an honor for a man to cease from strife." It is the only dignified way of vindicating his honor. The man who is the first to cease from strife—not the man who has the last word—sets himself right in his own estimation, and in the estimation of his fellow men.

But the text refers not alone to private quarrels. It applies, perhaps with greater force to public dissensions; for these cause greater mischief, because the interests involved are more important.

It is a very common occurrence that men who might make themselves very useful in public affairs, in the management of our institutions and charities, are so contentious and at the same time so touchy, that they become absolutely useless, and very frequently injurious to those very interests which they are anxious to protect. Questions arise upon which a difference of opinion is quite natural, and therefore legitimate and wholesome. It happens, then, very frequently, that among the minority there are some who regard a decision adverse to their views as a personal affront to themselves. Ostensibly they bow to the verdict of the majority; for they know that it would be thought ungentlemanly to do otherwise; but they grow sulky at their opinion being disregarded; they feel offended that they, perhaps the oldest, or perhaps the best qualified to give an opinion, could not carry their point. They quarrel with their colleagues, declare they will not act with them, and so withdraw their support.

This is an everyday occurrence; and the mischief it produces is incalculable. When such a sensitive dissentient withdraws, there is a loss of working power and a loss of pecuniary support. But it tells still more prejudicially in another way. Many an unpalatable truth remains unrecognized, although its recognition is a necessary of healthful progress; many a point is conceded, though its concession involves a public danger, lest an important supporter should take offence and withdraw his support.

It is an evil existing in all our institutions, great and small—in the magnificent schools, supported with zeal and bounty by the rich, and in the unobtrusive charities and benefit-clubs, maintained with such activity and self-denial by the poor.

Whence does this evil arise? Alas, it is the old tale. "Only by pride cometh contention." Only from self-love, vanity, conceit, and, above, all, a false idea of honor, does this great evil arise. Every one thinks himself right—and so he should. A man should take a pride in his opinion, if it be founded upon truth. You are not honest to yourself or to the world, if you suppress your opinion. But that opinion, once properly expressed, forcibly, deliberately, honestly, and at the right time, you have no right to enforce it by threat. The law which gives you a right to your opinion, gives others a right to theirs; and people may hold a contrary opinion to yours, without feeling the least disrespect toward you. It is your own disrespect for yourself, your own mistaken sense of your dignity that would induce you to take offence at a decision adverse to your judgment. You have more thought for your own dignity than for the interests you have undertaken to protect; and imagine that your honor is best maintained by injuring the work of perhaps a hundred earnest men's lives.

But apart from the sin you commit and the mischief you cause, how ineffectual the mode in which you assert your superiority, your pride your grand sense of honor. People laugh at you. If you had smothered your own feelings, and regarded only your duty, no one would have thought worse of you for being in a minority, or for yielding to the majority for the sake of the public good. You would have been honored as a man ready to sacrifice his own feelings for the general good. You would have been respected, because you yielded, with good grace, an opinion to which you were fondly attached; so again verifying the proverb: "It is an honor for a man to cease from strife."

Let us, then, alter our false ideas of honor, of dignity, and superiority. True honor, true dignity, and true superiority are self-asserting, needing not the voice of their possessor to proclaim them. Let us suppress that selfish vanity, which we mis-name honor—that obstinate pride which we mis-name firmness. Let us learn to sacrifice our opinions and our views, not weakly and dishonestly, but with manly meekness and with the sense of our own imperfect judgment.

It blows a hurricane, and the young tree bends to its fury, saying, "I will yield, for I am weak; and if I yield the wind will make me strong." But the old tree says, "I am old and strong. My roots spread far and wide, my trunk is deep in the earth. Blow, winds, blow! for I shall not bend." And the hurricane tears up the proud old tree. And when the storm is over, which holds the proudest place? the sapling, meek and weak, standing erect, unhurt, or the old gnarled trunk prostrate in the dust?

So, dear readers, one and all, old and young! Ever be ready to yield. If the gale be domestic strife, yield. You can afford to be generous to those you love. If the gale be a business quarrel, yield; you can afford to yield, for you thus disarm him who wronged you. If the gale be a public strife, yield. You can well afford to yield, for you gain esteem and respect thereby;—it is an honor for a man to cease from strife. Then will you grow strong in honor, strong in your own self-respect, strong in the esteem of the world, strong in the grace of God; you will be strengthened as the sapling which bends meekly to the gale. Then will your prayers for peace be heard, for you will have yourselves worked for their fulfilment.

And so, dear readers, most heartily we greet you with that dear old Jewish greeting: Peace be unto you.—D. O. R. K.

DEATH OF GENERAL THOMAS. — Major-General Thomas, Commander of the Pacific Division, died very suddenly of appoplexy, on Tuesday afternoon last, at his office corner of Sutter and Kearny streets. General Thomas was one of our best and most successful generals during the war of the rebellion, and a good and honest man. His remains have been embalmed, and were sent East yesterday.

INTERESTING WORK.—From the proprietors of the Jewish Messenger, in New York, we have received a very interesting work (published by them), entitled "Friday Night, a Selection of Tales Illustrating Hebrew Life." The book is very handsomely gotten up, and contains seven novels which were originally published in the Jewish Messenger.

THE building of the new Synagogue Sherith Israel corner Post and Taylor streets, is going ahead very rapidly, as we had occasion to observe when we passed there a few days ago. It promises to be a very imposing structure.

ITALY.—FLORENCE.—Louis Luzzati, a Jew, was offered the portfolio of one of the government departments, but he declined, as he considered himself too young for the position; he is not yet thirty years old.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

[From the Resident Correspondent of THE HEBREW.]

NEW YORK, March 22d, 1870.

EDITOR HEBREW:—At last the Maimonides Library Association I. O. B. B., of this city, has opened its hall for the use of the members of our noble Order, and brethren are requested to visit it often for the purpose of gaining information from the many periodiicals and the valuable stock of books it contains Members of the Association are permitted to take books from the Library and exchange them twice a week.

On last Wednesday we witnessed the largest Masonic funeral in this city for many years. The occasion was the demise of Past Grand Master A. Holmes, who for several years has occupied the responsible and highly honorable position of Grand Master in the Grand Lodge of New York. Eighty six Lodges followed the hearse to Grace Church, where the funeral services took place. Many P. G. M's., D. G. M's., and the present Grand Master, who had come from Salem, N. Y., were within the church, and acted as pall-bearers. The church would not hold a quarter of the vast concourse of men assembled to honor the remains of their much beloved master and brother. From the church the funeral procession moved to Hill Cemetery, where the usual solemn ceremonies of the Fraternity took place. It was an affecting moment when many gray-haired old brethren stepped up to the yet open tomb, and with eyes suffused with tears, dropped their sprig of accasia upon the coffin, to remind them of the time of resurrection, when this mortal clay, freed from all earthly desires and vices, shall be changed into an everlasting body, devoted only to the service of the Supreme Architect of the Universe.

The usual Ball of the Purim Association has not taken place this year, to the utter regret of many a beauty, and many a young man. Instead of this, Henry Clay Lodge of the F. S. O. I., gave a Fancy Dress Ball, which was highly creditable to that Lodge, since all arrangements had been made in the finest style, and the supper was the best given at any ball during the season. Many a Knight, and Count and King were present in their masquerade, who the next day booked the accounts of his boss, or measured a customer for a suit of clothes, or tried to sell a nice shawl to a lady customer of his store. The greatest harmony and friendly feeling possible prevailed, and we believe if the dawning morning had not reminded many present of the stern realities of physical existence, they would have practiced the terpsichorean art until now. All praise is due to the members of the different committees, and we only refrain from mentioning particularly assiduous members, as all done so well. It was strange that our Purim was just celebrated on the same day on which our Irish fellow-citizens celebrated their "St. Patrick's Day in the morning," with merry-making and a grand procession through the principal streets of the city, and which detained many a street-crosser for several hours. This highly illustrates the present happy condition of our country, with a non-sectarian Constitution, which the fiends of darkness in Pittsburgh, Pa., fain would try to alter for their fiendish purposes. People of diametrically opposed beliefs and opinion, enjoy the same day in their own manner, without molesting each other, thus proving the old adage, that in this country we have mainly "agreed to disagree" in all matters.

Another meeting to organize a society for the amelioration of poor Jewish immigrants, was held last Sunday at Mr. Horn's. Mr. W. H. Keesing presided, and Mr. I. S. Isaacs acted as Secretary. The following preamble and resolution were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has come to our knowledge that in consequence of the oppression now existing in various foreign countries, several hundred Jewish emigrants, destitute of all means of support, have lately arrived in this city, and many more may be expected; and

WHEREAS, It is our desire and aim to prevent such immigrants from becoming an additional burden to the community, and to enable them to support themselves and families, and to become useful members of society; therefore, be it

Resolved, That for the purpose of carrying out these objects, we form ourselves into a Society to be called the "Hebrew Immigrant's Society of the City New York."

It was urged that one of the main objects of the Society must be to procure apprenticeships for a trade to Jewish young men who arrive on our shores without possessing the knowledge of any handicraft. Of course, the Society is small as yet, but with the help of God it will grow, since true charity was always a jewel in the Jewish escutcheon, and is there truer charity than to help our brother so that he will be able to help himself?

Truly yours, VERITAS.

FRANCE—PARIS.—Baron Nathaniel de Rothschild, one of the partners of the great merchantile house of that name, died at Paris. He was born in 1812; from early life he took an active part in those great monetary transactions, with which the house of Rothschild had so long been identified, but for upward of eighteen years he had suffered from an affection of the spine. His magnificent house in the Rue Faubourg St. Honore was a constant resort of the political and literary celebrities of France and Germany. His loss will be much felt in society at Paris, as well as for his great ability and social qualities, as for the wide spread charity for which his family is everywhere distinguished.

FAMINE AT JERUSALEM

EDITOR HEBREW:—The following extract from an English newspaper, of date February 24th, 1870, has just been handed to me.

The appeal therein contained, addressed nominally to one whose zeal and efforts in the cause of our brethren in the East, would naturally suggest him as the proper one upon whom under Providence to call in the extremity represented, also addresses itself to every Israelite throughout the world, striking as it does, that master chord of the Jewish heart sympathy with the afflicted.

I have called a meeting of the Society for the relief of the Jews in the Holy Land, of which Society I have the honor of being President, for the purpose of taking such action in the matter as seems incumbent upon us; but in the meanwhile as the case is one not admitting of delay, I would through your columns, call the attention of the Israelites of San Francisco to the matter, and state that any contribution of the charitably disposed toward the relief of the distress described in the appeal, will be received and immediately forwarded by the Society for that purpose.

Yours, etc., J. R. BRANDON
SAN FRANCISCO, March 24, 1870.

To the Editor of "The Daily Telegraph."

SIR—Having so often witnessed your kind sympathy in the cause of suffering humanity, I venture to ask the favor of your interting in your valuable paper the accompanying translation of a Hebrew letter addressed to me by the representatives of the several Jewish congregations at Jerusalem, in the hope that private benevolence may afford some aid in alleviating the fearful distress now prevailing in the Holy City; and I beg you to believe me, your obliged servant, MOSES MONTEFIORE,
East Cliff Lodge, Ramsgate, Feb. 23.

BY THE HELP OF GOD.

City of Jerusalem,
Friday, 3rd of First Adar, 5630.

To Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart.

[After some Oriental expressions of Friendship, the letter goes on to say:]

Benefactor of our land! It is our painful duty to lay before you the petitions of our united Holy Congregations of Jerusalem, and to make you acquainted with the dire distress and poverty that afflict our people, for indeed it is a day of sorrow and awful calamity on account of the sore famine. All help from without is closed, and hunger rages within; for the rains of heaven are restrained, so that one cannot procure water even for money; every well is empty, and every spring is dry. Added to this, hosts of locusts have encamped in all our borders, and every blade of grass grown for our support have they appropriated to their legions; consequently all kinds of provisions increase in price from day to day, and stores and granaries have become empty. Wherefore, every heart trembles, and every eye weeps. Where can we get food to feed all this people, for they cry for bread to appease the hunger of their families?

Moreover, the days of the Passover are at hand, the bread for which is always dear; but even the ordinary bread we cannot provide, for we have it not.

Therefore, O Sir! to whose mercy and benevolence the eyes of the people have ever been directed, O! remember thy early love for Jerusalem, the city of thy yearnings all thy days; spread abroad thy wings, renew thy strength as the eagle, rouse thyself as a lion, and with a voice of thunder make to tremble the land; awaken Israel and stir up Jeshurun to have pity on their brethren in this their time of sorrow and affliction. O! that help may come to us from our brethren who are wont to extend the hand of mercy, kindness and compassion.

O Sir! exert the power of thy right hand, to be unto us a help and a shield, a refuge for the poor, a fortress in the time of sorrow. Give thyself neither quiet nor rest, for the sake of Zion and Jerusalem. And as for him who has compassion upon Zion, may his days and years be lengthened, and his eyes behold the rebuilding of the walls of Zion.

PROVIDE FOR YOUR FAMILY. — While life and health are preserved to us, we should not fail to make provision against the inevitable doom, which sooner or later must come to us all. Death may be robbed of half its terrors, if we take those wise precautions against its results, which are within the power of most men by the practice of a little self-denial or the daily laying aside of a trifling sum—even so small an amount as two or three bits! Not only against death can we now provide but against advanced years and old age, when no longer able to bear the burdens of life. The simple and easy method of securing either of the foregoing results is to take out a life insurance or endowment policy, and those who would thus defeat death or provide against calamity or old age, will be glad to know, they can do so with a gentleman, whose name is familiar to most of our readers and whose advertisement appears in another part of this paper. We refer to Mr. B. F. Peixotto, who has accepted the General Agency of the United Security Life Insurance and Trust Company of Pennsylvania, a staunch and reliable institution, and opened a handsome suite of offices 302 Motgomery street, where he will be happy to meet all desiring to avail themselves of the above benefits.

A HARE NURSED BY A CAT.—The strange sight of a cat nursing a young hare, can be seen at the house of Mr. Shubert in Los Angelos, a gentleman well-known to us. Mr. Shubert is a passionate hunter, and while out with his shot-gun lately killed a large hare. In its belly, upon opening the animal, he found three live young ones. One of them he brought home, and the house cat immediately adopted and nurses it tenderly.

GIANTS AND DWARFS. — The tallest lady and gentleman and the smallest man in the world will be exhibited to-night and during the week at Platt's Hall. A beautiful Circassian girl is also of the Company.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Deutsches Theater.

Am vergangenen Sonntag kam das von Carl Schmidt nach dem gleichnamigen Roman bearbeitete Drama „Der Graf von Monte Christo" vor einem gut besetzten Hause zur Aufführung. Wenn auch das genannte Stück durchaus keinen Anspruch auf künstlerischen Werth machen kann, so ist es doch nicht ganz ohne Geschick gearbeitet, und ließ daher auch, besonders da sich alle Mitwirkenden die beste Mühe gaben, dasselbe gut und abgerundet über die Bühne zu führen, das Publikum nicht unbefriedigt. Von den Mitwirkenden war es wiederum vor allen Herr von Hoym, der sich die Krone des Abends durch sein vortreffliches Spiel errang. Sein „Monte Christo" war in jeder Beziehung, in Maske sowohl, wie in Spiel auf's Beste gelungen, und brachte ihn oft und wiederholt den Beifall des Publikums ein. Herr Cäsar Frank führte seine Rolle als Kaufmann „Morel" sehr gut durch; doch gab ihm dieselbe, da sie ziemlich unbedeutend war, nicht genug Gelegenheit, sein Talent zu zeigen. Frl. Meyer, die in den ersten zwei Akten als „Mercedes" und nachher als „Gräfin Morcerf" auftrat, gefiel in der ersten Rolle nicht so gut als in der letzteren, die sie aber auch zur vollsten Wirkung brachte; sie spielte die von der Erinnerung an ihren Jugendgeliebten gequälte Frau, die denselben so lange todt geglaubt und ihn nun plötzlich als Retter ihres Sohnes wiedersieht, ausgezeichnet, was ihr auch durch Beifall und Hervorruf belohnt wurde. Von den übrigen sind noch die Herren Niemeier und Maret hervorzuheben, die ihre Rollen gleichfalls gut durchführten, so daß das ganze Stück, wie schon erwähnt, gut und abgerundet über die Bühne ging.

Deutsche Oper.

Freischützaufführung. — Wie wir schon in unserer vorigen Nummer berichteten, kommt am nächsten Sonntag, den 3. April, im Metropolitan Theater „Der Freischütz" zum Benefiz des Herrn A. Farini zur Aufführung, und können wir nicht unterlassen, unser Deutsches Publikum nochmals besonders hierauf hinzuweisen. Es wird uns Deutschen hier in San Francisco ja so selten zu Theil, eine unserer großen und gediegenen Opern zu hören, und grade deshalb muß eine solche, wenn sie einmal hier aufgeführt wird, einen um so größeren Genuß gewähren. Um die Oper ihres, großen Komponisten würdig, in Scene gehen zu lassen, hat die Direktion, nach den Proben zu schließen, alles mögliche gethan, und die Rollen mit den besten Gesangskräften besetzt. Auch das Orchester ist nach Möglichkeit verstärkt und gut eingeübt, so daß wir also eine wirklich gediegene Aufführung erwarten können.

SPANISH OPERA. — "Catalina de Russia" was given Saturday evening last, at the Metropolitan Theatre, to a very crowded house. The opera was brought out with great splendor, two bands of music and a large number of supernumeraries appearing upon the stage. The march of the recruits in the second act was especially fine, and had regularly to be repeated. The music of the opera is light. On Wednesday last "The Hidden Treasure" was given, which contains some very fine concerted pieces, especially in the second act. Yesterday "The Flash of Lightning. The solo artists of the troupe and the choir acquitted themselves admirably, and we were glad to see that their efforts have been rewarded by very good houses.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The "Duke's Motto" held the stage during the week to good houses. On Wednesday afternoon the benefit of Mr. Marble, Assistant Treasurer of the theatre, (and a good low commedian), took place. A medley performance was given, prominent among which was the clever imitation of the dansieuse Bonfanti, by Mr. Willie Edouin. Every gesture and movement of the little terpsichorean queen, he copied to the life. No less than four times Edouin was called upon by the audience (composed largely of ladies), to repeat his dance, and good naturedly complied.

WOODWARD'S GARDEN.—Of all the places of recreation in and around San Francisco, Woodward's Garden is the most beautiful as well as the most instructive. We do not know which to praise most, the splendid botanical pispiay, the fine and rare menagerie, the picture gallery, hot house, or the many other attractive features of this oasis in our city. Every Sunday a grand concert is given by an orchestra composed of some of the best musicians in our city.

PACIFIC BANK.—We call the attention of our merchants to the removal of the Pacific Bank to the new and splendid building, N. W. corner Pine and Sansome streets.

— A lady of this city believing herself ill-used by her husband determined to leave him and go back to her parents. Friends tried their utmost to effect a reconciliation, but without success. The husband, who loved his wief dearly, was in despair. Finally a happy thought struck him; quickly he went to THE Cloak Establishment of this city, (Sullivan & Co., 14 Montgomery street,) purchased one of the splendid cloaks of the above firm, and presented the same to his wife. The effect was an instant reconciliation of two loving beings.

FASHIONS IN SAN FRANCISCO.— While sauntering along Montgomery street on Monday last, we noticed a perfect stream of ladies entering the grand millinery establishment of Mrs. Butler, under the Occidental Hotel. Impelled by curiosity we followed, and a sight greeted our eyes which hardly will ever be effaced from our memory. To the right and to the left of us, everywhere bonnets of the most exquisite pattern, and most beautiful artificial flowers, which seemed to breathe forth perfume, met our gaze; like attending fairies glided among them charming young ladies. The beauty and fashion of San Francisco, seemed assembled in this store. We will try to describe a few of the most attractive specimens of her ornaments: First, a white chip bonnet, chatelaine style, pointed, elegantly trimmed; a pink, Lafitte style bonnet, trimmed with roses and lace, to fasten under the chignon; a white tulle bonnet, lace trimmings, pink rose, to fasten under the chignon; white straw with field flowers, Chantilly lace trimming; a blue velvet and tulle to match, blush rose and foliage, and forget-me-not; a May Queen Summer hat, long blue feather, velvet trimming, blush rose under the leaf; white Elma chip hat, black velvet feathers, jet ornament; a tulle hat, wheat to match; and last, a Swiss peasant hat, something odd but stylish trimmed with flowers and black velvet ribbons. But to appreciate the elegance and recherche style of hats and bonnets, the ladies must go and see for themselves. Mrs. Butler and her young lady attendants have a cordial reception for all their visitors. What surprised us most, however, in all this fine display, was the low price asked for all her goods.

—Of the many merchants from the interior, now in this city purchasing their Spring Goods, we would ask the question: Have you insured your life? If not, do not hesitate a moment, but go to the office of the California Mutual Life Insurance Co., No. 13 Merchants' Exchange, and take out a policy. Don't fail to do it.

PHOTOGRAPHING.—We verily believe that Messrs Bradley and Rulofson are entitled not only to the confidence, but the gratitude of this entire community for the many improvements made in the art of Photographing. They are preeminently the leaders of the art in San Francisco. Go and see their "Rustic" and Marine Photographs. If you want a good picture go to Bradley & Rulofson.

YOU may plant rue, thistles, or dogwood, and when the earth hide them, label the spot roses, violets and mignionette; but time will show the falsehood, even as it proves the mendacity of those who claim for their worthless nostrums, virtues only to be found in the "Exellent," that famous carminative prepared by Barry & Patten.

— Die Herren M. Stepper u. Co., 42 Sechste Straße, nahe Mission, empfehlen zu den Feiertagen ihr reichhaltiges Lager aller Sorten Weine und Liquöre dem Publikum.

WHERE to buy good boots and shoes is an important question. We can recommend all in want of boots, shoes, gaiters, etc., of the very best quality, and at lowest rates, the splendid establishment of Messrs. M. Rosenthal & Bro., 310 Kearny street. Don't fail to give them a call.

— Dr. T. C. Jessup ist von den östlichen Staaten wieder zurückgekehrt, und kann in seinen alten Räumen, Ecke Sutter und Montgomery Straßen, über Tucker's, consultirt werden. Er ist präparirt, jeden Anforderungen seiner alten sowie etwaigen neuen Kunden, die ihm beehren, zu genügen. Jede Arbeit in dieser Office, die nicht zur Zufriedenheit ausfällt, wird bei persönlichem Ansuchen nochmals besorgt. Die Preise sind, um mit denjenigen in den östlichen Staaten zu correspondiren, um 25 pCt. reducirt worden. Beste Rubber Platten, volle Obere oder Untere, zu $25, wobei Zufriedenheit garantirt wird. Die colossale Anzahl von Platten, von ihm gemacht, welche jetzt getragen werden, geben eine genügende Garantie seines Erfolges in dieser Branche. Alle sollten bei ihm vorsprechen, ehe sie ihre Arbeit anderweitig machen lassen.

CHALLENGE.

RECENTLY A COMMUNICATION APPEARED in the public press of this city, asserting (which is no doubt true) that in much of the Candies sold in this city Terra Alba, or Chalk, was an ingredient largely used in their composition, and that the coloring matter was of a poisonous nature. M. H. GARLAND, 828 Market street. Proprietor and Manufacturer of the well-known COUGH DROPS and AROMATIC MASTIC CANDY, desires the public to know that his Confectioneries and Candies are perfectly pure and harmless, and he will give $1,000 to any Chemist or other person who can discover Terra Alba or any poisonous substance, either in the composition or coloring matter, in any of the Candies or Confectionery manufactured by him. Patronise Home Industry!

KNOWLTON'S

Jet Black Writing Fluid!

Knowlton's Writing Fluid becomes jet black as soon as dry upon the paper, and is blacker and clearer immediately upon being used than any other writing fluid that has come under our observation. It flows very readily from the pen, does not corrode or clog, will not mold, and its color is as durable as the paper upon which it is written. We see no good reason why this article should not come into general use in place of the imported article.—[San Francisco Daily Times.

We take pleasure in recommending it as the best in use, and can state from experience that it has not the corrosive qualities of other inks, and is therefore, if for no other reason, invaluable where steel or quill pens are used.—[Jacksonville (Oregon) Press.

Having tried it we pronounce it the best we have ever used.—[Visalia Times.

After due trial we pronounce it a splendid article.—[Monterey Gazette.

It is certainly a fine article, not surpassed, if equaled, by any writing fluid we have ever used.—[Santa Clara Argus.

We consider it the best in use.—[American Flag.

It is certainly the best we have ever used.—[San Jose Mercury.

It will not blot, and is a superior mixture.—[Napa Reporter.

It flows freely, contains no sediment, and does not corrode the pen, and is really superior to any other ink we have used.—[San Francisco Elevator.

We have tried it and find it the best we have ever used.—[Quincy Union.

We hesitate not in pronouncing it superior to any writing fluid we have ever used—[Amador Ledger.

It is a writing fluid of superior quality. It is unquestionably the best and by far the cheapest.—[Mountain Democrat.

It is without exception the best we have ever used.—[Calaveras Chronicle.

It is the best manufactured. We use it and know it to be so.—[Folsom Telegraph.

It is a superior article.—[Amador Dispatch.

It is without doubt the best writing fluid ever put upon the market.—[San Andreas Register.

We have found it superior to any we have used.—[Healdsburg Standard.

We feel obliged to commend it as superior to any that we have knowledge of in evenness of flow and indisposition to clog the pen.—[Contra Costa Gazette.

It is indelible, and is without exception the best we have used.—[Sierra Advocate.

This is the best ink manufactured.—[Yreka Union.

It is a beautiful fluid, and should be on every merchant's desk.—[Red Bluff Independent.

We can recommend it to all who want a superior article.—[Auburn Herald.

What is a Tonic.

Bear this in mind—that although a tonic is, to a certain extent, a stimulant,—a stimulant, unmodified by any medicinal substances, is not a tonic, but A DEBILITANT; In HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS there is a stimulating element of the purest grade manufactured in this or any other country. Every fiery and corrosive oil or acid which contaminates the ordinary liquors of commerce, is expelled from the rye spirit which forms the alcoholic basis of the BITTERS, by careful and repeated rectification. The juices of the valuable roots, barks and herbs, infused into this wholesome product of the finest grain, still further modify its nature; so that it becomes, in fact, a simple diffusive agent, minus all the heady and brain exciting properties which belong, more or less, to all liquors in a raw state. It is merely the safe and harmless vehicle which renders the medicinal virtues of the preparation effective,—increasing their active power, and diffusing them through the system. Hence the pleasant and gentle glow which is experienced after taking a dose of the BITTERS. Instead of creating headache, as unmedicated stimulants are apt to do, this salubrious tonic is the best known remedy for that complaint. It calms and sooths cerebral excitement, strengthens the nerves, promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, invigorates the bowels, determines the fluids to the surface, improves the appetite, increases the animal vigor, regulates organic action, from its mild yet effective alterative qualities, is the very best preparation that can be administered to the weaker sex in the peculiar difficulties to which their organization snbjects them.

—Our Fur Traders and Trappers in fitting out here, find Ayer's medicines one of their most profitable articles of traffic. Around Slave Lake and the wild regions of the north, the Indians know their uses and have an abiding faith in them. They say: "Ayer—great medicine—cure sick man," and his remedies, for the diseases from which they suffer, will often bring forth their stock of skins even quicker than wampum, rum, or tobacco. Savages are not fools if they are unsophisticated in some of the arts of civilization.—Montreal Pilot.

—To those proposing an Eastern trip by railroad, it is of great importance that they select the best route. The Chicago and North-Western Railway, connecting with the Central Pacific and Union Pacific roads at Omaha, being the oldest, shortest and quickest route, and running Pullman's palace drawing-room sleeping cars with every express train, recommends itself to the traveling public as enabling passengers to make the trip with speed as well as comfort.

— The finest and best Fruits (fresh and dried) for the Holidays, can be had of Messrs. Precht & Eggers, Pacific Fruit Market.

— Liebhabern einer guten Mahlzeit, sowie eines guten Glases Bier oder Wein, empfehlen wir das neue im feinsten Styl eingerichtete Ma.ket Street Restaurant, 783 Market Straße.

— Wer immer nobel und fein gekleidet gehen will, bemühe sich zu J. Blake, 417 Sutter Str., hin, wo er die feinsten Anzüge in jeder beliebigen Auswahl haben kann.

— Jede Art von Schuhen und Stiefel, nach der neuesten Mode und zu den billigsten Preisen, verfertigen Youngclaus & Ahren, 335 Sutter Str., wo immer eine große Auswahl fertiger Schuhe und Stiefel zu haben sind.

— Alle Sorten von Glas- und plattirten Waaren, französischen Nadeln, so wie Zinn- und Eisen-Artikeln hält die Firma Jules Blanchard, No. 44 Vierte Straße, zu den billigsten Preisen auf Lager.

— Die feinsten Billiards an der Pacific-Küste sind in der Congreß-Halle, Bush Straße, überhalb Montgomery, wo auch die besten Getränke zu haben sind.

— Alle Sorten von plattirten Waaren, von den gewöhnlichsten bis zu den feinsten, sind in den San Francisco Plattirungswerken, 655 Mission Str., zwischen Zweiter und Dritter, zu haben.

— Die besten, leicht und bequem, aber doch dauerhaft gebauten Farmwagen, liefert die Wagenfabrik von Meeker, James u. Co., Ecke California und Davis Straßen.

— Die Office des Doktors Mabon, der sich durch seine Kuren einen so großen Ruf erworben, ist 128 Kearny Straße; allen Kranken empfehlen wir ihn aufs Beste.

— Die besten Spring-Betten und Springmatratzen liefert die Firma John Hiland, No. 42 Vierke Straße.

— Die feinsten Juwelen, Gold- und Silberwaaren findet man in reichhaltigster Auswahl nur bei J. W. Tucker u. Co., N. W. Ecke von Montgomery und Sutter Straßen.

SHAMEFUL ARE THE WAYS OF QUACKS.—An examination of one of the articles offered to the Ladies for beautifying the Complexion, said examination being prompted by the statement of a lady that, "using it had made her teeth seem loose," disclosed the fact that it contained a large quantity of a mercurial salt which had probably salivated her. There seems no law to reach such scoundrelism; manufactured by quacks of the first water, made to sell by skillful advertising, and the fraud and stupidity of dealers in drugs and perfumery who recommend an article they can make the most profit out of, the ladies are cautioned to use only such articles for the complexion as they may be certain are manufactured by some known expert, like the "Creme de Lis," manufactured by Dickey, Pioneer Apothecary. *

HOUSEKEEPING.—The many parties now in boarding-houses who intend to set up housekeeping by themselves, will, we are sure be thankful to us when we give them a hint where they can buy furniture, all of the best quality, at astonishing low rates. It is of J. A. Shaber, 707 Market street, near Third, manufacturer and dealer in furniture and bedding; who sells his goods cheaper for cash than any other dealer. Don't fail to call.

Photographien. — Von allen Photographien, die uns bis jetzt vor Augen gekommen sind, müssen wir denen, die die Herren Brown & Otto, 28 Dritte Straße, verfertigen, den Preis zuerkennen, da dieselben in jeder Hinsicht aufs Beste ausgeführt sind. Trotzdem sind die Preise für dieselben viel niedriger, als sie gewöhnlich gefordert werden.

ATTENTION.—If you want a good fitting pair of boots or shoes made to order, at liberal prices, go to Beez & de Longe, No, 315 Bush street. These gentlemen will give to everybody satisfaction, and guarantee for their work. *

Zehntes Capitel.

Von der Schädelstätte herab führte ein breiter Weg zum Roßthore. Hatte man dieses durchschritten und wendete sich dann linker Hand die Höhe hinan, so lag die Burg Davids vor den Augen des Wanderers. Wenngleich der Hohepriester den Tempel gegen die Burg hin vermittelst einer hohen Mauer hatte schützen lassen, damit das fremde Kriegsvolk die Frommen auf ihrem Wege nicht stören könne, so war es doch sein sehnliches Verlangen, und er erkannte es als eine heilige Pflicht, die Besatzung der Burg zu vertreiben und den Stolz seines Volkes, Königs Davids herrliche Feste wieder zu erobern. Von Golgatha aus hatte er die schwächere Seite des Felsenhorstes erkundet, und mit der größten Anstrengung den treuesten Theil seiner Unterthanen zur Belagerung der Burg vermocht. Seit vielen Jahren fanden die Hinrichtungen der Verbrecher nicht mehr auf Golgatha statt; die Mauern und der Fels der Burg waren übersättigt worden vom Blute der Schuldigen und Unschuldigen. Die gewöhnlichste von Kallistides verhängte Strafe war die grausamste: an der äußersten Mauer, die die Burg nach Golgatha hin schützte, hatte er fünf zackige scharfe Eisen anbringen lassen, die etwa zwei Spannen lang aus der Mauer hervorragten, gierigen Krallen gleich, die lebenswarmen Opfer aufzufangen und in ihr Fleisch sich zu graben. Wer so unglücklich war, über die Mauer gestürzt zu werden, verfiel einer drei Tage langen Todesqual, und das Elend selbst verbarg sein hohläugig Antlitz vor dem Wehgeschrei der Gemarterten; denn jeder Nerv, einer nach dem andern mußte erst absterben, ehe der Tod das ihm geweihte Opfer in seine mitleidig würgenden Arme schloß.

Dieser blutigen Tyrannei, diesem henkerischen Unwesen, mußte der Hohepriester steuern, und mit aller Anstrengung schritt er zur Belagerung der Burg.

Es war eine herzerfreuende Erscheinung für die Juden, als sie allmählich die wohlbewehrten Belagerungsthürme wie aus dem Felsen erwachsen sahen. Trotz des augenscheinlich drohenden Todes legte jeder Mann rüstig Hand an's Werk. Ungeheure Balken wurden zu viereckigen Thurmpfeilern verwendet, mächtige Planken dienten darin zu Fußböden der Abtheilungen, deren jede so hoch war, daß die siebente schon die Ringmauer der Burg überragte. Mittelst gewaltiger Flaschenzüge wurden die Katapulten hinaufgewunden und die Felsstücke, welche die Juden mit diesen Wurfgeschützen in die Burg schleuderten. Im zweiten Geschoß von Oben befanden sich die Bogenschützen, die Höhe der Mauer mit ihren Pfeilen bestreichend; es waren hier die geübtesten aus Jonathas Kriegern — selbst die Schwalbe im Fluge entging kaum ihren spitzigen Pfeilen. Im dritten Geschoß von Oben lagen die Geharnischten, jedes Winkes ihres Feldherrn gewärtig, die Sturmleitern anzulegen, um die Feste zu stürmen. Sie sowohl als die Krieger in den untern Geschossen waren von dem gewaltigen Bau gegen die Schleuderer und Pfeilschützen der Belagerten gesichert. Der unterste Raum der Thürme, ein ungeheures Viereck, das fünfzehnhundert Kriegsknechte faßte, bot einen überraschenden Anblick, denn hier lagen die mächtigen Blöcke im Wasser versteinerter Eichen, versehen mit zwölf Spannen im durchmesser haltenden Widderköpfen; die Kraft von hundert starken Männern war nothwendig, den Widderkopf an den Fuß der Mauer zu treiben, und auf diese Weise Löcher hineinzuwühlen, um sie zum Sturz zu bringen.

Aber auch bei diesen riesigen Anstalten hatte es der Hohepriester noch nicht bewenden lassen. Bis zum Roßthor hin reiheten sich, stets unter den Waffen, seine Schaaren und hüteten des Ein- und Ausgangs der Belagerten, denn verbünden wollten sie sich mit zwei mächtigen Feinden, mit dem Hunger, mit dem Durst.

Da nun die Schädelstätte nur noch den Namen führte, entschloß sich der Hohepriester, die Wichtigkeit des Punktes erkennend, diesen Hügel zu reinigen, damit er sich nicht selbst verständigen möchte, wenn er ihn beträte. Drum brachte er im Tempel ein Reinigungsopfer dar und zog dann, am funfzehnten Tage des Monats Elul hinaus nach Golgatha. Die Schädelstätte war von jedem ekelerregenden Anblicke gesäubert worden; Saif Ben Thur war bei dieser Gelegenheit der Unermüdlichste und ihm zur Seite stand in unwandelbarer Treue: David Ben Isa Keren Ofal, denn Malka schmachtete ja so lange schon droben unter den Heiden — Malka, die liebevollste Mutter, die treueste Gattin! Und endlich nun sollte die Gewalt der Waffen zur Entscheidung führen.

Dem Hohenpriester war auf Golgatha's Höhe ein prächtiges Zelt erbaut. Weder Pfeil noch Schleuder der Belagerten konnte den Bogen dahin beschreiben; Jonathas lag sicher und nichts hinderte sein Auge, zu jeder Stunde den Stand der Belagerung zu beobachten. Die Regungen in den hervorragendsten Männerherzen waren ebenso verschieden als ihre Stellung. Jonatha's, der Opferpriester, angemahnt von seines Vaters und seiner Brüder Schatten zu übermenschlicher Thätigkeit, und wohl begreifend, daß ein ganzes Menschengeschlecht, die nachkommenden Geschlechter sogar, die erwartungsvollen Blicke auf das Feldherrnzelt auf Golgatha hefteten. Doch das war nur Eines, was unabweislich sich ihm aufdrängte denn auf der andern Seite standen die beiden Könige, durch Kleopatra blutsverwandt, und bekriegten einander trotz des Hohenpriesters Warnung mit Wort und That. Wie hätte wohl ein Makkabäer ahnen können, daß die sanfte äußere Hülle des Ptolemäers einen Rabenvater berge? Er mußte einsehen lernen, daß es besser sei, wenn das Hoheprieteramt mit der fürstlichen Macht auf einem Haupte sich paarte, als daß die königliche Macht dem Einflusse einer Priesterkaste untergeben würde. Der Ptolemäer hatte zu einer That sich entschlossen, die jedes fühlende Herz mit Entrüstung füllte. Hier vor Davids Burg galt es, mit der Eroberung der Feste auch dem Gatten die treue Gattin zu befreien, und dort bei den gekrönten Häuptern riß ein Vater gewaltsam das geheiligte Band der Ehe entzwei, gab seinen Eidam dem Elende Preis und seine Tochter einem andern Manne zum ehelichen Gemahl! Wenn die Großen der Erde unter einander sich raufen, da kommen die Kleineren allerdings am besten weg, wenn sie nur selbstisch genug sind, Treubruch und Meineid für keine Sünde zu halten! Jonathas aber war ein Makkabäer, ihn kümmerte König Alexanders doppeltes Unglück, und doch durfte er nicht brechen, nicht offenbar feinselig handeln gegen die beiden nunmehr befreundeten Könige, denn seines Volkes Wohlfahrt hing von seiner Weltklugheit ab, und er mußte erkennen, daß falls er nicht jetzt Davids Burg wiedererlange, bevor das Zerwürfniß der Könige sich ausgeglichen — daß dann diese größte und heiligste Aufgabe des Volkes ins Meer der Unmöglichkeit versinken werde. Da blieb ihm keine Wahl!

Neben ihm im Zelte finden wir Simon Makkabäus, herbeigerufen aus seinem Stadthaltersitze, mit seiner Weisheit das Belagerungsheer, aber auch den Bruder zu unterstützen. Jonathas' Geist war selbstständig genug, um der berathenden Stimme entbehren zu können; das neue Regiment aber hatte die Aeltesten und ihre Würde wieder eingesetzt, ihr Urtheil war nicht gleichgültig drum hatte Jonathas seinen Bruder Simon zu sich gefordert, in so hochwichtigen Dingen ihm zur Seite zu stehen.

Das ganze Menschengeschlecht konnte dem Hohepriester Simons Treue nicht aufwägen. Zwei Dinge regieren die Menschheit, Herrschen und Gehorchen, und das Herrschen ist so reizend, so verlockend, das an seinem Reiz an seinen Lockungen schon manche Tugend verblutete, und in seiner Vertheidigung die heiligsten Bande der Natur mit Füßen getreten wurden. Simon Makkabäus hatte sonder Zögern den Hoheprieserschmuck wieder abgelegt, seinen Gehorsam zu seines Bruders Füßen. Konnte daher Jonathas bessern und vortheilhaftern Rath aus irgend eines Menschen Munde erwarten? Das Geschlecht der Makkabäer war so glückselig, nicht einen Selbstsüchtigen hervorzubringen! Wie der greise Vater nur seines Volkes Wohlfahrt gelebt, und mit des Volkes Segen sein Todtengewand geschmückt, so all seine Söhne; — ihr Leben, ihr Sterben galt ihrem Volke, ihrem Gott.

Noch ein Dritter war hier im Zelte anwesend: Saif Ben Thur. Die Belagerung der Burg zu Jerusalem forderte ungeheure Geldopfer; sein Theuerstes auf Erden, seine Malka, erlangte mit einem für die Belagerer günstigen Ausgange ihre Freiheit; Saif Ben Thur war treu geblieben auch in höchster Noth, — was konnte der alternde Mann jetzt noch bieten außer seinen in der Höhle von Jargal verborgenen Schätzen! Aber auf Simon's Rath ließ man diese Schätze noch unberührt.

Edles Metall, meinte er, und des köstlichen Edelgesteins unschätzbarer Werth sind die Stütze eines kriegführenden Volkes. So lange du, mein Bruder, aus deinem Seckel die Kriegsfurie am Gängelbande führen kannst, thue es, und sollte dein letzter Denar draufgehen. Was ich besitze, sei dein Eigenthum. Befiehl, und auf deine treuen Kriegsknechte sollen Simon's gefüllte Truhen einen Gold- und Silberregen streuen; denn der Fürsten Größe lebt kein stärkerer Feind als der unbestreitbare Einfluß irgend eines Unterthanen. Sollte es aber Gott gefallen, die Ebbe in unsern Truhen der Art Herrschaft gewinnen zu lassen, daß nicht ein Silberling mehr die Eintönigkeit des Bodes unterbricht, dann erst möge Saif Ben Thur den Zug nach der Höhle von Jargal unternehmen und Anwartschaft auf das Fürstenkleid in Israel sich erwerben!

Adonai, sprach er, gönne mir das Wort. Deinem erhabenen Bruder, dem weisesten Manne in Israel, muß ich beipflichten. Warum gedenkst du nicht meiner? Ich habe dir gesagt, Nichts will ich in Israel. So dieser Krieg für Euch einen guten Ausgang genommen, ziehe ich mit den Meinen dem Heimathlande zu, und Euer Dichten und Trachten, Ihr Makkabäer, ist meine Unterweisung. Diese Unterweisung, diese großen Lehren kann aller Reichthum unseres Heimathlandes nicht aufwägen. Ihr streitet für die Selbstständigkeit Eures Volkes. Das Streben, Selbstständigkeit zu erlangen werde ich in die Herzen meiner Brüder verpflanzen, den Geist sklavischen Gehorsams unterdrücken, den Volksgeist wecken und treulich pflegen. Tiefe Wissenschaft und Menschen beglückende Künste haben Eure Vorfahren, die vom ägyptischen Joche befreiten Sklaven, in das Land ihrer Freiheit mitgenommen; Euer Volk soll dem meinen ein Exempel sein, und die Erfahrung wird es auf die ihm gebührende Höhe der Menschheit hinauftragen. Ihr seht, ich kaufe von Euch, ich schenke Euch nichts, wenn ich die vom Sande reingewaschenen Körner unserer Flüsse als edelstes Gold Euch biete. Befehlt, und Ihr sollt auf Goldstaub wandeln, befehlt, und Eure Krieger sollen fürstlich zahlen können für die geringste Leibesnothdurft! Glaubt indeß nicht, daß ich mit diesem Erzeugniß unserer gütigen Sonne Euer

VINEGAR BITTERS.

THE GREAT

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Dr. J. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS.

MORE THAN 500,000 PERSONS bear testimony to her Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

They are not a vile FANCY DRINK, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c. that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD-PURIFIER and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible in the health of the patient. PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, Possessing, also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the Blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

ganzes Vertrauen erwerben möchte: Befehlt und ich lasse mich statt eines Felsenblocks vom Katapult oder Balisten über die Burgmauer schleudern, um Eure Feinde zu würgen, ein mörderischer Dämon, der der Sonne entstoben ist!

Die Makkabäer staunten den Mohren an, denn das Erbieten war so ungeheuer, daß jedes Menschen Seele vor diesem Wagniß zurückbebte.

David, der Schildträger des gefallenen Helden, ließ nicht auf sich warten und dem Munde des jungen Mannes entströmten die Worte gleich der weisen Rede eines erfahrenen Greises:

Ich erinnere mich des Streits der Könige und sehe dich, Fürst und Herr, in eine gefahrvolle Lage versetzt. Geschmeidigkeit ist zu loben, wo es das Bestehen eines Volkes gilt, aber sie wird verpönt, wenn des Volkes Ehre unter ihr erliegt. Wer weiß, was bis jetzt geschehen ist? Schon trägt man sich mit wunderlichen Gerüchten; Einer flüstert sie im Vertrauen dem Andern zu, und dieses Geflüster birgt eine wichtige schreckliche Wahrheit. Wenn von den Königen der Erde solche Kunde in das Volk gelangt, dann gleicht jedes Wort über sie dem Skorpion, der von des Einen Munde durch das Ohr des Andern in seine Seele dringt und mit giftigem Stachel sie erregt und durchglüht. Nicht zu Euch, Ihr Fürsten, gelangt dergleichen alsbald; uns aber, die unter das Volk sich mischen, vertraut es sich und sein Geheimniß an, wähnend, dadurch in unserer Gunst sich festzusetzen. Es ist wahr, und ich habe Bürgschaft dafür, daß der Aegypter König über Kleopatra entschieden hat, und Simon sollte das nicht wissen; Simon, der von Tyrus bis Aegypten befiehlt?

Wohl ist mir das zu Ohren gekommen, versetzte der darauf. Aber wer möchte noch an die Menschheit glauben, wenn Thaten geschehen, die der Natur selbst und der Gottheit zu Schimpf und Schmach gereichen! Soll ich's glauben, soll ich nicht? Jedes Volk hat für der Ehe ehrwürdiges Band eine Heiligung, und wenn ein König mit der Entheiligung den Glauben stürzt, so entwürdigt er den Gott seines Volkes und speit Entwürdigung über dasselbe aus!

Die Trabanten lüfteten in diesem Augenblick den Vorhang des Zeltes, des Hohepriesters Wink gewärtig. Er ließ sie eintreten, und drei Männer, von dem Kretenser, Demetrius, gesendet, stellten sich dem Hohepriester dar. Sonder Gruß und Wort überreichten sie einen Brief ihres Herrn, aber der Hohepriester weigerte sich der Annahme und fragte:

Wer seid Ihr? Von wannen kommt Ihr? Fremd ist mir Euer Gesicht, fremder noch Eure Kriegsrüstung, am Befremdlichsten aber Eure Zudringlichkeit, denn ich weiß mich nicht zu entsinnen, daß ich irgend Einem von Euch sicheres Geleit zugesagt.

Vergönne mir das Wort, o Herr, versetzte der eine — der, in dessen Händen der Brief sich befand.

Du hast es! entschied Jonathas.

König Iskander, begann der Sprecher, regierte über die Grenzen seiner Macht hinaus und hegte den verrätherischen Plan, mit seinem Königreich auch das seines Schwähers, das Königreich Aegypten zu verbinden. Der wachsame Ptolomäer kam diesem bösen Trachten zuvor und verbündete sich mit dem Kretenser, Demetrius, zur Vertreibung seines treulosen Eidams. Iskander floh vor der Uebermacht und der strafenden Gerechtigkeit nach Arabien zu Zabdiel, dessen Gastfreundschaft suchend. Der verzweifelnden Mutter, seinem Weibe Kleopatra, entriß er das zarte Kindlein und machte das flüchtige Roß zur Wiege desselben; im starken Arm führte er den weinenden Knaben mit sich hinweg in eiligster Flucht. Deß erbarmte sich Kleopatra's Vater, nahm die weinende Tochter und legte sie dem sanftern Gatten, Demetrius, an die liebende Brust. Aber des mächtigen Aegypterkönigs Boten eilten zu Zabdiel, ihn bedrohend mit des Königs Zorn, wenn er länger den treulosen Eidam, Iskander, bergen würde. Die Könige der Erde sind allzumal Brüder, und König Zabdiel übte Brudertreue, er schickte Iskander's blutig Haupt —

Alexander todt? rief Jonathas.

Aber der Aegypterkönig? war Simons bange Frage.

Der Sprecher senkte den Blick und antwortete tonlos:

Er verschied nach drei Tagen.

Eleasar, der ebenfalls zugegen war, sprach halblaut vor sich hin:

Ein Gottesgericht!

Die ungeheuerste Wirkung brachte diese Schreckensnachricht auf den Mohren hervor. Seine Augen rollten gleich Feuerrädern, seine Brust schwankte auf und nieder gleich dem Vulcan, wenn es in seinem Innern nahe vor dem Ausbruche kocht. Jonathas aber bekundete seine Fassung, indem er Ruhe gebot und dem Sprecher fortzufahren befahl.

Das bessere Theil zu erwählen, steht in deiner Hand. Wir sind nur die Vorboten vor des großen Königs Abgesandten; lies diesen Brief und gieb uns die Versicherung sicheren Geleits her und hin.

So entfernet Euch, entschied Jonathas. Wenn ich des Königs Brief lese und meinen geheimen Rath befrage, bedarf's der fremden Zeugen nicht. — Johannes! rief er dem Hauptmann der Trabanten zu, halte die Männer ehrlich, bis du meine weiteren Befehle vernimmst. Erquicke sie mit Speis und Trank und Jeglicher von ihnen empfange tausend Seckel Silbers, auch wenn die Antwort des Hohepriesters eine nicht günstige sein sollte, denn sie haben vor ihm gestanden und sein Angesicht geschaut und kommen in eines Königs Auftrage!

Jonathas war mit seinem geheimen Rath allein; er löste mit eigener Hand die seidenen Fäden, die den Brief zusammen hielten, und reichte ihm Eleasar hin, daß der ihn laut verkünde:

Eleasar rollte den Brief zusammen und reichte ihn seinem Bruder dar. Jonathas streckte willenlos die Hand aus, und da sie den Brief des Königs erfaßt hatte, blieb sie schwebend in der Luft, denn seine Seele hatte nicht mehr Theil an seinem Körper. Simon war zuerst des Wortes mächtig, faßte seines Bruders Hand und sprach bedächtig:

Zwei Könige sind untergegangen vor diesem Demetrius; was wird ihm ein Oberpriester der Juden gelten?

— — Und deinen Ankläger schickt er als Abgesandten! fügte Saif Ben Thur hinzu, Tryphon, den Freund eines Abtrünnigen!

Den Freund meines Vaters! rief David.

Nun bei der Sonne! antwortete der, hier bedarf es keines minutenlangen Nachdenkens. Du sollst gen Ptolemais ziehen, das heißt just so viel, als deinen Block zum Henkersblock tragen. Hast du mehr als diesen einen Kopf zu verlieren, so ziehe hin zum König, aber bedinge dir im Voraus für deine Brüder, daß sie deinen Leichnam nach Modin führen dürfen.

Ger, unterbrach ihn Jonathas in gemäßigtem Tone, die freie Rede steht dir gut, und sie ist mir angenehm im Rath. Doch kann ich dir nicht beipflichten: wie wollte Demetrius, wenn er so schändlich an mir handelte, vor dem Richterstuhl der Weltgeschichte bestehen? Vor dem höchsten Gericht, das nur Könige oder sonst der Menschheit Auserwählte vor seine Schranken fordert?

Adonai, antwortete Ger mit bitterm, vielsagendem Lächeln, hätte der Ptolemäer Demetrius und Zabdiel, der Araber, das bedacht so würde Iskander's Haupt noch auf seinem Rumpfe sitzen. Du kennst mich; zieh hin nach Ptolemais, ich geleite dich und theile dein Geschick!

Der Mohr schwieg. Jonathas aber hatte seine Worte wohl erfaßt und ging langsamen Schrittes, dann und wann seinen Weg in tiefen Gedanken unterbrechend, mit verschränkten Armen auf und nieder. Dann plötzlich stand er still vor seinen Rathgebern und die Hände wie zum Gebet erhoben, rief er:

Gott Zebaoth, erleuchte diese und stärke meinen Willen mit deiner Kraft, auf daß meines Volkes Ehre aus solchen Wirren makellos hervorgehe! — Ruft mir den Tryphon, es beliebt mir, mit ihm zu verhandeln!

Herr! zitterte ihm Saif Ben Thur entgegen, mit deinem Todfeinde?

Schweig! war die kurze Antwort. Soll ich mit diesem kaum zu verantwortenden Ungehorsam des Herrschers Zorn auf mein Volk herabbeschwören? Nein, nein, das vermag ich nimmer!

Simon und Eleasar faßten seine Hände und riefen im eindringlichsten Tone der Bruderliebe ihm zu:

Bruder! Gehorsam gegen einen Mörder? Sollen wir Dich wie unsere zwei andern Brüder nach Modin führen?

Laßt mich, war der kurze Bescheid. Will doch hören, was mein David spricht, deß Name an Trübsal und Elend des gotterwählten Königs der Juden erinnert. Ist denn ein so Großes um das Sterben? Zwei Möglichkeiten kann meine Wahl zur Folge haben, aber der Ausgang sei, welcher er wolle, so gereicht er meinem Volke zu Sicherheit und Glück. Hält mich der König ehrlich, so ist ein großer Wurf geschehen, und statt daß wir von Golgatha schier hoffnungslos zur Burg hinüber schauen, sind wir wieder im Besitz unseres Palladiums. Läßt der König mich tödten, so weiß mein Volk, wessen es von ihm sich zu versehen hat; und wahrlich, ich sage Euch, der Herr hat seine Kraft so lange schon bewährt, er wird mein Volk auch länger noch erhalten, selbst im offenen Streite gegen diesen König! Mein Leichnam würde zum Würgepanier werden!

Wie du gesagt, so ist es, gestand der glühende David zu, und ich schwöre dir beim Grabe meiner Mutter, daß deinem Todtenwagen, nach des Helden letzten Worten, die Mitternacht zur Mittagshelle werden soll; der Trauerpferde Hufe sollen in einem Purpursee von erstochener Feinde Blut waten! Du hast das bessere Theil erwählt, Herr und Fürst! Laß Tryphon vor dein Antlitz kommen, seine Klugheit möge die Deine werden, denn dem stärkern Gebieter macht weislich der Schwächere seinen Willen unterthan.

Des Alters Weisheit strömt von der Jugend Lippen! — Ruft mir Tryphon; sicheres Geleit sei ihm zugesagt, her und hin, so weit die Grenzen unseres Landes sich dehnen.

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

☞ The Great Trial of Sewing Machines! The Grandest in the World! The Judges the whole world, and the trial fifteen years' duration. Practical use the test. The universal verdict: "The Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine the Champion."

The Wheeler & Wilson, as is well known, has won at nearly every trial in which it has competed, the highest award of merit. The representatives of other machines, ever confident, have entered the lists time and again, only to be defeated, and finding it impossible to compete fairly, have endeavored to decry the value of premiums. They are not slow, however, to boast of the few they have received. But in the grand trial—daily use throughout the world, where only true merit finds favor and superiority wins the race—the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine stands triumphantly the champion of the verdict of the people.

These Machines are adapted to every variety of Sewing, from the lightest muslins to the heaviest cloths. They work equally well upon Silk, Linen, Woolen or Cotton Goods, with Silk, Linen, or Cotton Thread, Seaming, Quilting, Gathering, Hemming, Felling, Cording, Tucking, Braiding, Embroidering, and making Button Holes, with the greatest facility.

If it be inconvenient for the purchaser to visit the salesroom, the order may be forwarded to the office, and it will be as faithfully filled as if the selection had been made personally. Full instructions, recently compiled, and giving full information upon every point in detail, accompany each Machine, and enable the most inexperienced to operate without difficulty. Our interest in the successful working of Machines is not second to that of the purchaser, and we esteem it a privilege to aid, by correspondence or otherwise, any person requiring it.

THE PROSPECT.

SINCE CHICAGO AND NEW YORK HAVE come into such close competition with San Francisco, our people are panic-stricken at the prospect of their trade being taken from them, and instead of exerting themselves to retain it, they are letting their Eastern neighbors underbid them in everything.

WHAT WE DON'T LIKE TO DO

It is difficult in estimating a job to abandon the old reckless way of putting the price at the nearest round figures, but money cannot always be so easily made and spent as it has been in California. The Eastern style must be adopted, AND CENTS COUNTED AS WELL AS DOLLARS.

NO "UNIONS" FOR US.

To insure PRINTING AT EASTERN PRICES to the public, we have found it necessary, not only to MAKE THE MOST CAREFUL ESTIMATES, BUT TO BREAK AWAY FROM THE CONTROL OF THE TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION, whose tyrannical laws compelled us to pay men fifty to seventy-five per cent. more than printers of the same class were getting in the East.

WHOM WE WILL EMPLOY.

Now we can employ men outside of the "Union," and pay them what they are worth, or we can take boys to learn our trade, or we can give women a chance to earn their living, without danger of interference from the Typographical Union.

WHO ARE BENEFITTED.

We have taken the initiative in this matter, and we appeal to Authors and Publishers for co-operation, as it is for their especial benefit that the price of composition should be reduced. For LAW WORK we have very large founts of type, specially adapted to that class of business, enabling us to submit proofs of almost any size of Brief or Transcript, on the shortest possible notice.

☞ Every MERCHANT, MANUFACTURER and BUSINESS MAN should also aid us in this effort to liberate an important industrial interest from the domination of an oppressive Trades Union. We have set the ball in motion, and if the work is sent us, we can guarantee success to the movement.

By individually superintending the different Departments in our Establishment, we give a guarantee that every possible means will be taken to SECURE CORRECTNESS AND DISPATCH. Any person requiring Book or Pamphlet work should be sure to call, and, at least get an estimate from us. Our reputation for fine BANKING, INSURANCE AND OTHER COMMERCIAL WORK, is so well established, that nothing need be said in regard to it.

We have specimens of every description of mercantile work, which we will be pleased to submit for inspection.

THE GENESEE FLOURING MILLS,

EDWARD KENNEDY, PROPRIETOR,

ARE LOCATED ON GOLD STREET,

Between Montgomery and Sansome.

THE BUILDING IS FOUR STORIES HIGH on a lot 60x127½ feet. The Mill has five run of Burr Stones. The engine is of 85 horse-power, and the capacity of the Mill about 400 barrels of flour every 24 hours. The establishment is now full and complete, and in perfect running order. The Mill has been burned three times within a few years, but now Phœnix like, is better and more complete in its appointments than any of its predecessors and is in all respects one of the finest Flouring Mills in the State. Among other appurtenances, are two smut mills, and two shaking machines, the latter designed to separate the barley and oats from the wheat; its cleaning apparatus is perfect in all its workings, and with a massive structure, strong and durable as it is possible to be, everything moves on steadily and successfully. The grain is subjected to five separate cleanings through as many powerful suction funnels, thus cleaning the wheat from all impurities, and the flour product every way superior, commending itself to all consumers. no19 Es ist sehr richtig was eine unserer geachtetsten Damen neulich Tags zu einer ihrer Freundinnen sagte. Sie sagte: Ich kannte Charles Limaruti, als er ein Etablissement zur Anfertigung von Damenkleidern in Washington Straße gründete. Er machte alle meine Anzüge seit der Zeit zur größten Zufriedenheit. Ich habe beinahe alle Kleidermacher und Kleidermacherinnen der Stadt versucht, ehe ich zu Carl Limaruti ging, und nirgends wurde ich so zufriedengestellt, als bei ihm. Seine Anzüge passen besser und haben ein schöneres Aussehen. Er besitzt sicherlich den besten Geschmack für den Besatz der Kleider und ist billig. Er beschäftigt die besten Arbeiter und Arbeiterinnen, deßhalb kann er Damen Anzüge schnell und billig anfertigen. Es wäre vortheilhaft für Sie, wenn Sie bei ihm vorsprächen. Sie werden sehen, daß bei allen Unfällen und Sorgen, welche er außerhalb des Geschäftes hatte, dasselbe doch beständig besser geht. Er hat jetzt das größte und beste Damenkleidergeschäft in der Stadt, welches beweist, daß er sein Geschäft versteht und auf dasselbe Acht giebt. Gehen Sie zu ihm und sehen Sie seinen Store an und Sie werden finden, daß er kein Humbug ist. Er ist 820 Washington Strasse, überhalb Dupont, zu finden."

Von großem Interesse für Damen.
